

Connie Due to Hit at 7 P.M.

TIRE CREW of Navy Neptune leaves plane at Jacksonville, Fla. air base after reconnaissance flight into eye of hurricane "Connie" which Miami weather bureau said will hit U.S. coast near Wilmington Del. about 7 p.m. (PDT) if present course of storm is maintained.

LAST YEAR'S PATTERN followed by hurricanes Carol, Edna and Hazel shows how they were deflected over land by high pressure area off Newfoundland, despite prevailing off-shore westerlies. Weather bureau notes today that hurricane Diane is gathering force about 200 miles south of Connie.

ROUND-CLOCK WATCH

Canada All Ready If Hurricane Hits

By British United Press
Federal civil defence officials began a round-the-clock watch on hurricane Connie today while eastern Canada prepared for its possible onslaught.

Maj.-Gen. Frank F. Worthington, federal civil defence co-ordinator, said the hurricane's course was being plotted by CD operations teams in co-operation with the federal weather bureau and U.S. civil defence authorities. He ordered his aides to immediately relay up-to-the-minute reports to threatened areas.

Worthington said Canada was better prepared now to cope with the hurricane or other major disasters than it was during hurricane Hazel which killed more than 70 persons and caused $2,643,000 damage in Canada last fall.

"Many Canadian communities today are much more hurricane-conscious than they were," he said.

Connie was not expected to become a major threat to eastern Canada, if at all, until Friday.

Hopes Abandoned For Downed Fliers

CHURCHILL, Man. (CP)—Hopes that two men survived the crash of their civilian plane 25 miles northeast of Churchill waned today as RCAF officials reported that the port wing of the plane had been found in waters off Hudson Bay.

day at the earliest. But farmers, fishermen and sailors in the Maritimes kept close tabs on its path and took no chances.

Maritimers hoped that their rugged coastlines would protect them. In Toronto, city and provincial government officials said they were prepared should the big blow barrel inland.

For Maritime farmers, it was a case of wait and see. But a severe storm could prove very costly. It was estimated that Nova Scotia's apple crop was double that of last fall when hurricane Edna tore the ripened fruit from the trees, causing millions of dollars in damage.

The crop is estimated at more than 4,000,000 bushels and a market for at least half of it must be found outside Canada.

A severe storm could interfere with two major events scheduled in the Maritimes this week-end. One is the official opening of the Canso causeway, linking Cape Breton with the Nova Scotia mainland, on Saturday.

The other is "Exercise Rising Star," a division-sized mock war being staged at Camp Gagetown, N.B., by the army.

In Montreal, officials of Hydro-Quebec, which supplies electricity and gas to several hundred thousand homes, and spokesmen for police, firemen and the Red Cross said emergency programs could be put into effect within minutes.

Fred Gardiner, chairman of Toronto's metropolitan council, said the city which failed to organize a warning system before hurricane Hazel struck was ready for Connie.

Most of the Atlantic fleet's warships were expected to stay in Halifax, N.S. It is a protected port and other shipping in the area likely would head there for shelter if necessary.

SINCLAIR INJURED DURING SOVIET TOUR

MOSCOW (Reuters)—James Sinclair, Canadian fisheries minister, was injured in a fall while visiting a Russian drydock at Kamchatka, the Canadian embassy said today.

The statement from the embassy said Sinclair was injured at Petropavlovsk, a Kamchatka fishing centre normally barred to foreign visitors, but his "condition is not regarded as serious."

The embassy said the minister was under medical care and was expected to resume his tour of Russian Pacific fishing areas within two weeks.

The embassy said Sinclair's executive assistant, Alistair Fraser, also was involved in the accident but already has been discharged from hospital. Further details were not immediately available.

BCPC Seeks Island Power On Mainland

Rugged Homathko-Chilko Area Studied By Public Power Body

By TOM GOULD

The British Columbia Power Commission is now looking to the mainland coast for sources of hydro-electric power for future industry on Vancouver Island.

SOVIET SELLS WHEAT TO U.K. AT 21c LESS

WINNIPEG (CP)—Cable reports today on the Winnipeg grain exchange said Russia had sold a cargo of wheat on a sample basis to the United Kingdom at a price 21 cents below the asking price for Canadian milling grades. It was not known how the Russian wheat involved graded with Canadian wheat.

The commission feels that when the newly-authorized Upper Campbell-Buttle Lake project is completed the last major source of hydro power on the island will have been developed and it must be prepared between 1958 and 1960 to find another source of power to meet the demand.

Power developed in the Homathko-Chilko area, which is about 65 miles northeast of Campbell River across the Gulf of Georgia, would have to be fed across the gulf by island-hopping lines. The B.C. Electric will bring power across by submarine cable for the Victoria area which it serves.

The Homathko-Chilko area has a possible potential of over 1,000,000 horsepower and was once looked at by Aluminum Company of Canada for its huge aluminum development. However, part of this could be developed on the Homathko River for the power commission purposes.

Cost of the project would be many millions of dollars.

FOUR SITES

Four huge power sites are available on the Homathko River. At Shelter Canyon, a dam 300 feet high and about 960 feet long would develop 126,300 horsepower.

Nude Canyon, with a 300-foot dam and 650-foot crest, utilizing a power house at Lowa Lake, would provide a combined head of 930 feet, which would develop 397,400 horsepower.

From this one site alone, an amount of power equal to that which will be available to the commission from John Hart, Ladore Falls, Upper Campbell (Continued on Page 13)

GRANDVAL WARNS FRANCE

Morocco Home-Rule —Or More Bloodshed

PARIS (UP)—Resident-General Gilbert Grandval of Morocco today urged France to pledge sweeping reforms for the North African protectorate to avert violence and end the gravest crisis faced by the French since the Indo-China war.

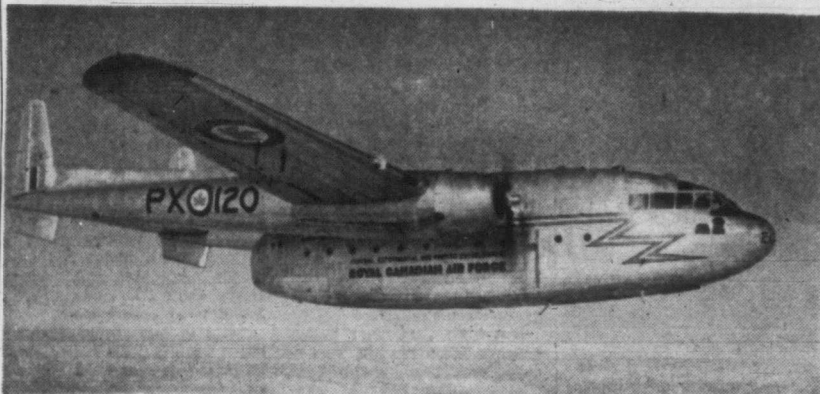

Grandval made his recommendation at the opening session of a crucial meeting of the North African co-ordinating committee, according to well-informed sources.

The informants said Grandval called on the government to make a solemn pledge of more home-rule for the protectorate before Aug. 20. The date marks the second anniversary of the ouster of pro-Nationalist sultan Sidi Mohammed Ben Ousef, Moroccan Nationalists have called for public demonstrations and there are real fears that they may touch off new violence.

Premier Edgar Faure called the meeting to examine Grandval's reform plans and heal a breach in the ranks of his majority which threatens his government.

Fiery Midair Crash Kills 66 Soldiers

"FLYING BOXCAR" ... of type which carried 66 men to death.

No Survivors In Giant U.S. Planes

STUTTGART, Germany (AP)—Sixty-six U.S. soldiers and airmen were killed today when two air force transports tangled in the air and plunged flaming into the Black Forest.

It was Europe's worst post-war air disaster and the fourth highest in aviation history.

Nine giant C-119 Flying Boxcar transports loaded with U.S. Seventh Army troops took off on an afternoon air transport exercise from Echterdingen airfield, near Stuttgart.

Within 15 minutes, two of the planes were charred wrecks. One crashed into the forest and the other into a clearing 30 miles west of Stuttgart.

Villagers said there was a "massive explosion" and both planes burst into flames as they crashed. There were reports that the explosion was heard 50 miles away.

DRIVEN OFF BY FLAMES
German police and volunteer rescuers rushed to the scene but the fierce flames drove them off.

A police official in the disaster area said: "A blaze of flame and a cloud of coal-black smoke gushed from the crash. Police, firemen, foresters—everybody available—rushed to the spot on foot, on bicycles and in cars."

One plane carried a crew of five and 41 soldiers. The second carried four crew men and 14 soldiers. Each carried a loadmaster, an air force non-commissioned officer responsible for loading troops into and out of the transports.

ENGINE TROUBLE
The air force said that one plane developed engine trouble at 4,000 feet shortly after the take-off. It lost altitude momentarily and then suddenly veered across the nose of another plane in the formation.

The crippled plane went down immediately. The second Boxcar flew level for almost a minute, then plunged to the ground.

The announced death toll would make this the fourth worst air disaster in history. A total of 129 U.S. servicemen died in the wreckage of a C-124 Globemaster near Tokyo in 1953. In 1952 another C-124 crashed on taking off from Larson air force base in 1950, a commercial plane carrying soccer fans crashed at Cardiff, Wales, with a death toll of 80 persons.

ANTI-WAR PACT WITH SOVIETS GERMAN PLAN?

BONN (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer may offer the Soviet Union a non-aggression pact during his forthcoming visit to Moscow, acting chancellor Franz Blucher said today.

Blucher told a press conference: "There is nothing in the West Germany offering assurances to any country that it will not attack."

"The new German wehrmacht (army) will be created solely for defensive purposes."

The four governments issued identical announcements today of the date for the foreign ministers meeting. The conference was ordered by the recent heads-of-government Geneva "summit" conference.

The foreign ministers meeting is regarded as the "acid test" of whether the Russians actually are willing to put their sweet talk into writing.

A brief U.S. announcement said: "Following consultations through diplomatic channels, the governments of France, the United Kingdom, the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics and the United States have agreed that the meeting of the foreign ministers in the directive issued by the heads of government on July 23, will convene at Geneva on Thursday, Oct. 27, 1955."

"They are also agreed that the conference of foreign ministers will be served by a joint secretariat of the four powers."

The three Western foreign ministers may meet in New York next month to discuss the Western position at the Geneva meeting. U.S. officials said it would be normal for the three to talk privately if all attend the opening session of the United Nations General Assembly, Sept. 20, in New York.

The first hearing was told there was no "apparent" danger in allowing the boys to attempt the difficult climb. They said they had not been warned avalanche conditions existed.

Probe Resumes Into Death of Boys on Peak

BANFF, Alta. (CP)—Inquest into the death of seven young American boys in an avalanche on towering Mount Temple resumes today after a recess of almost a month.

The boys, between the ages of 12 and 16, were swept nearly 1,400 feet to their deaths July 11 when a mass of wet, unstable snow broke loose and crashed down the steep slope. They were among a party of 11 that almost succeeded in conquering the 11,636-foot mountain.

A one-day hearing was held July 15. Survivors of the avalanche and the expedition's two leaders testified before returning to their homes.

Provincial coroner M. M. Cantor will preside at today's hearing.

Foreign Ministers At Geneva Oct. 27

Conference Regarded As 'Acid Test' Of Soviet Desire for World Peace

WASHINGTON (UP)—Foreign ministers of the United States, Britain, France, and Russia will meet in Geneva on Oct. 27, in a further effort to find a basis for world peace.

The four governments issued identical announcements today of the date for the foreign ministers meeting. The conference was ordered by the recent heads-of-government Geneva "summit" conference.

New Air Chief Named By Ike

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower today named Donald A. Quarles as the new secretary of the U.S. air force.

Quarles, 61, now is assistant secretary of defence for research and development. He will succeed Harold Talbott who resigned Aug. 1, effective this Saturday, after a Senate investigation subcommittee explored Talbott's outside business interests and raised a question of ethics.

Bennett Says Court House 'Has Not Cost ... One Cent'

KELOWNA, B.C. (CP)—Premier Bennett today officially opened Kelowna's new $300,000 court house.

The colorful ceremony was witnessed by hundreds of residents and visitors here for the four-day regatta.

Mr. Bennett said that while Kelowna's court house is one of the most modern structures in B.C., "It has not cost the taxpayers of B.C. one cent."

The building has been paid through the government saving $3,300,000 in interest alone, he said.

"That's the way we're doing all our building."

Mystery Chinese Brothers Saved From Sea Off West Vancouver

VANCOUVER (BUP)—Immigration authorities here have been asked to assist in clearing up the mystery of two Chinese seamen found early this morning clinging to a life preserver in Burrard Inlet.

The two men, Chi Yang Chang, 29, and his brother, Shi Loong Chang, 31, were found clinging to a life preserver one hundred yards from the West Vancouver shore. One of the men, dressed only in shorts, was inside the preserver, while the other, dressed in pants and shirt, was clinging to the outer rim of the preserver.

The two men were being treated at North Vancouver general hospital for shock and exposure.

The air force said that the X-2 will reach "heights and speeds never before realized."

Special precautions for pilot safety include a cockpit enclosed in a capsule which can be separated from the rest of the plane and let down by parachute. At a safe altitude the pilot would be ejected and then continue his descent with his own parachute.

Plane to Travel 2,250 MPH, 100,000 Feet Up

WASHINGTON (UP)—The air force will begin test flights this year with a stainless steel rocket plane designed to reach a speed of about 2,250 miles per hour at altitudes of 100,000 feet.

The air force announced the forthcoming flights of the Bell X-2 will take place at Edwards Air Force base, Cal. Details of the plane's expected performance were obtained from responsible sources.

The X-2 is designed to investigate the so-called "thermal barrier." This refers to the enormous heat generated on the skin of a high speed air plane by air friction.

At a speed of about 2,000 miles an hour the temperature rises to 600 degrees and would dangerously weaken the normal aluminum alloys now used in aircraft construction. Consequently, the X-2 was designed with a high content of stainless steel which does not weaken until temperatures of about 1,600 degrees are reached. Friction would cause such a temperature at about 3,300 miles per hour.

The X-2 is a descendant of the famous X-1, the first plane ever to exceed the speed of sound, and the X-1A which holds the present world speed record of 1,650 miles an hour and also has been flown to a record height of 90,000 feet.

The air force refused to disclose the power of the curvilinear Wright rocket engine which will hurl the X-2 through the stratosphere. But it said its power could be compared to that of a modern navy cruiser which is about 120,000 horsepower. That indicated to observers that the rocket motor probably will develop a thrust of 15,000 to 18,000 pounds which, at the expected speed of 2,250 miles per hour, would translate roughly into the cruiser's horsepower.

The air force said that the X-2 will reach "heights and speeds never before realized."

Red China Concerned Over Korea Problem

Seeks Far Eastern Parley to Find Peaceful Settlement; More Rioting

LONDON (UP)—Red China's foreign ministry called today for a far eastern conference "to seek peaceful settlement of the Korean question."

A New China news agency broadcast said Communist China was seriously concerned by demands of the Republic of Korea that the neutral nations supervisory commission leave the country. "The countries concerned should not stand idly by," the Red broadcast said.

For eight days, groups numbering from several hundreds to as many as 2,000 or 3,000 South Koreans have attacked American guards at compounds in Korea housing members of the neutral nations supervisory commission. The mobs sought to seize and eject the commission's Communist members before Saturday.

Six hundred South Korean demonstrators tried today to storm the gates of the U.S. army's Hialeah compound at Pusan but were driven back, fragmentary reports from the southern port city said.

"This is a serious action, aimed at outright destruction of the Korean armistice agreement," said the Communist statement, broadcast by radio Peking.

Western governments have been seriously concerned that the Communist powers would seize upon the series of clashes to protest that the Korean armistice is being violated.

TRABERT OKAYED U.S. Hopes Brighter in Davis Cup

BOSTON (AP)—America's hopes of retaining the Davis Cup have brightened with the announcement that Tony Trabert—sidelined with a back and shoulder ailment—will be ready for tennis competition next week.

U.S. team captain Billy Talbot told reporters at a press conference that Trabert has been given a medical go-ahead to defend his U.S. doubles championship with Vic Seixas at Longwood Cricket Club Aug. 15-21.

The climax of Trabert's troubles came July 31 when he was forced to default in the finals at Southampton, N.Y.

Talbot said he can think in terms of only one doubles team for Davis Cup—Trabert and Seixas. How about singles for the Davis Cup?

"I feel right now that Trabert's a pretty obvious choice," he said. "The other spot is open. I hope it's Vic Seixas and if he can show the form he did in Australia last December he's our man."

Meanwhile, Australia's Davis cup captain Harry Hopman remained non-committal on the future of Lew Hoad who has been bypassed in the Aussies' last few Davis Cup interzone matches.

Australia's forces meet the Italians in their last interzone hurdle at Philadelphia this weekend. They already have swept past Mexico, Brazil, Canada and Japan.

Senate Criticism Didn't Unlock Secret of Undercover Drug Work

VANCOUVER (CP)—RCMP-city police round-up of drug peddlers here was an operation so secret it was kept from the Senate committee investigating Canada's narcotics traffic.

The committee, headed by Senator Tom Reid of New Westminster, scolded Vancouver police six weeks ago for laxity in handling the drug problem here.

The castigation was a major factor in the events leading to the Reginald H. Tupper Royal Commission now investigating charges of corruption and laxity in the police force headed by Chief Walter Mulligan.

Senator Reid, in an interview Wednesday night, said Tuesday's round-up "appears to have been spurred" by his group's condemnation.

But high Vancouver police officers claimed the undercover operation by two Vancouver police "rookie" constables—Bob Deventer, 27, and Ken Scherling, 25—already was in progress when the Reid committee was studying the Vancouver situation.

They said Chief Mulligan, guiding the operation, could not answer the Reid committee criticism. He feared the scheme would be exposed, endangering the lives of the two undercover men.

But Senator Reid last night reiterated the laxity charge.

"Our report will stand the closest scrutiny," he said.

"The evidence we gathered showed obvious laxity of enforcement in Vancouver. In Toronto, with about 350 addicts, and Montreal, with fewer than 200 addicts, we found good enforcement."

"And in our study of U.S. cities we found that wherever enforcement and sentence were heavy, crime and drugs were down. Wherever there was laxity, crime and drugs were up."

Bail Deferred for 'Kingpins'

Bail totaling $140,000 was set Wednesday for 17 of the 28 caught in raids by 25 RCMP and Vancouver policemen. Seven other suspects are sought.

Five other men, said to be kingpins, were charged with conspiracy to traffic in drugs. Magistrate Oscar Orr reserved decision on their bail application.

"In the last case of this sort the man never did turn up in court," Magistrate Orr said.

He was referring to the notorious Mallock brothers, who skipped $40,000 bail in 1950. John Mallock died in a car collision in Mexico. George, recaptured in New York, is serving a 27-year sentence.

Those held without bail, pending Mr. Orr's decision, are Vincent Valois, 42, boiler-maker; James B. Maligne, 28, laborer; Lucien Mayer, 49, carpenter; Robert J. Tremblay, 33, steamfitter, and Charles A. Talbot, 36, shingle-sawyer.

Four of them—Maligne, Mayer, Tremblay and Talbot—along with Marcel Frenette already face trial on charges they attempted to murder Thomas Kinna, June 12, by beating him with an iron bar.

Police said some weeks ago the beating was connected with "a drug war for control" of the illegal narcotics market in Vancouver where there are 2,000 of Canada's 3,100 known addicts.

Top bail set Wednesday was $15,000 for Patricia Bagstad, 22, facing eight charges of trafficking, and Robert Wilson, 35, described by the crown prosecutor as "an important connection between the peddlers and distributors."

New Drug Ring Already in Action?

Alan Rossiter, acting as chief of Vancouver police while Chief Mulligan is on leave of absence, pending completion of the Tupper inquiry, said Wednesday he hadn't even met the two undercover constables who broke the drug ring.

"They went right out of police school into the mist," Rossiter said.

The acting chief—who formerly headed the traffic squad—credited the rookies with rounding up "the top men in a drug ring" and said he would personally and officially commend them.

But Rossiter added he would "normally expect another syndicate to try to take over."

The round-up had "dealt a major blow at the traffickers and suppliers," but it "remains to be seen whether it will be permanent," he said.

Vancouver Province newspaper reported Wednesday it "learned from underworld sources" a new syndicate already has taken over, and has 15 "pushers" on the street. The Province said head of the syndicate is known to police.

The Sun said the price of drug capsules rose Wednesday from the normal $5 apiece to $6-$10.

The paper quoted officials in Ottawa as saying that the seizure in Toronto Saturday of $1,000,000 in raw narcotics will upset drug distribution in Vancouver "for several months." The Toronto raid, conducted by RCMP and Toronto police, was reported to have been triggered by a "tip" from Vancouver RCMP.

New Area Hunted For Plane Lost With 5 B.C. Men

VANCOUVER (CP)—The search for a Pacific Western Airlines plane in the Kemano-Kitimat area is in its eighth day without any trace being found of the amphibian or its five occupants.

Weather conditions were near-perfect Wednesday as the centre of the air search shifted to an area north of Terrace, where several persons reported hearing an aircraft the day the two-engined Grumman Mallard disappeared on a flight from Kemano to Kitimat.

The search for the plane, which was carrying five B.C. men, is being conducted by the Canadian Coast Guard and the RCMP.

The plane was last seen on Tuesday, Aug. 9, when it was reported to have crashed in the area.

Police Revolver Curb Sought by Esquimalt

Reeve Wurtele Favors English System Of Officers Doing Without Firearms

A move to outlaw use of police revolvers except for self-defence was started by Esquimalt Police Commission Wednesday.

"I think it is perfectly ridiculous for police to use revolvers unless confronted by someone with a gun," Reeve A. C. Wurtele said.

The commission passed a resolution calling for a revolver training plan to be set up by the reeve and Police Chief Gil Stancombe.

Commissioners were critical of a recent Toronto incident in which two nurses died after being struck by a stolen car, flung out of control when its driver was shot by police giving chase.

A similar incident occurred a year ago in New Westminster when police shot and killed an occupant of a fleeing stolen car.

TIGHTEN UP Members of the commission favor tighter restrictions on police use of revolvers. Reeve Wurtele said he favored the English system in which constables do not carry firearms.

A regulation limiting use of police weapons would be a matter for a joint meeting of Greater Victoria police commissioners to take up, the reeve said.

Esquimalt police this week are completing a course in general police training by writing examinations on what they have been taught during the past two months.

Sgt. James Smart was named acting police chief for the period Aug. 15-Sept. 5 while Chief Stancombe is on annual leave.

Next meeting of Esquimalt police commission will be Sept. 14.

Ohio Village Street Wrecked
By Explosion in Thunderstorm

ASHTABULA, Ohio (AP)—A violent explosion and fire levelled six buildings on the nearby Andover village square Wednesday night, killing at least 21 persons and injuring 35. The blast was in the Gateway Restaurant, where many of the victims had crowded to escape a fierce thunderstorm.

The two-story frame building disintegrated with a force that shook houses throughout the village of 1,200.

Debris showered Main Street in front of the restaurant, ripping up sections of the roadway and wrecking several automobiles. Then the flames whipped on to other buildings.

Policeman Elmer Bumbles, driving past the restaurant at the time, gave this description: "The walls blew out and the roof fell in. There were arms and legs sticking out of the wreckage all over the building."

No one was certain what caused the explosion. Firemen, however, speculated that accumulated gas was set off by a bolt of lightning or by a spark from electrical equipment in the basement, flooded by the heavy rains.

Saanich Crackdown on Stray Dogs to Follow Mass Turkey Killing; Dog Owner Faces Suit

Saanich will crack down on all stray dogs in the municipality.

Action follows an attack by dogs on turkeys at a Prospect Road farm early Wednesday.

Between 150 and 200 full-grown birds were killed. Losses were estimated, by owner Charlie Newman at $3,000.

Cir. Leslie Passmore said regulations to control stray dogs will be tightened to prevent a repetition of the attack.

"The problem of stray dogs is a serious one," he said. "It will have to be faced by the council."

Meanwhile, Saanich police have traced two suspected dogs in the Newman farm raid.

Deputy Chief Bert Pearson said a cross-bred Border Collie dog was turned over by the owner to the poundkeeper for disposal. The animal was wounded by Constable Jack Stone at the time of the raid, but got away.

The other suspected dog, a cross between an alsatian and doberman, will be returned to its owner, who is denying that his animal took part in the raid, the deputy chief said.

These people don't seem to realize that a dog in 15 minutes can deprive a man of his livelihood," he said. "They would be the first to protest if something similar happened to them."

The deputy chief said citizens are not aware there is an Animal Act which gives any person the right to shoot a dog which trespasses on his property, or molests and worries his domestic animals.

Mr. Newman today had not made a complete count of his dead birds.

"So far I have burned 152," he said. "I haven't had time to collect the other dead ones in the bush."

Mr. Newman added he will have to kill some 30 other birds because they are so badly injured.

The Saanich farmer said he will take civil action against the dog owner to recover some of his losses.

"If I don't make up the losses, I will be in the red this year," he said.

Mr. Newman said it was not the first time his turkeys had been attacked by stray dogs. But, he said, he had not reported the damage because he did not want to create bad feelings with neighbors.

"But any dog who comes on my property now, I'll shoot," he said.

The department of agriculture said the problem of killer dogs is a serious one.

"We get many reports of dogs killing sheep, cattle and poultry," he said. "Some of these animals hunt in packs and do more damage than wild animals."

A Full-Time Job

SURVEYING THE RECENT session of the Canadian Parliament, The Winnipeg Free Press rightly deplores the haste and slipshod debate of the closing days.

Parliament generally ends its annual labors in a frantic rush because the members, being human, are eager to escape the midsummer heat of Ottawa and get home.

This year the rush was worse than usual as a result of a long opposition filibuster against an unwise piece of government legislation. The same scramble will always occur under Parliament's present schedule.

It meets at the beginning of the year, resolved to prorogue by the end of June. But when July comes the agenda is customarily crowded with unfinished business which is then dispatched hurriedly, often without adequate consideration.

These arrangements were good enough when Canada was much smaller than it is now and its business much simpler. A few months of debate could easily manage the nation's affairs and a member of Parliament might consider his duties as a brief interruption of his private business.

Today membership of Parliament is virtually a full-time job in Canada as in Britain or the United States. For this reason members have lately secured a full-time salary of $10,000 a year and are obligated to earn it. To be sure, this is not so much as many able public men could earn in private business, but it is a fairly adequate compensation and a man knows what work he is undertaking and what he will be paid when he seeks election.

Apart from the huge volume of legislation to be considered annually in a modern state, it is vital to the constitutional system that Parliament should be pretty continuously in session. For it is only through Parliament that the public can effectively influence the daily activities of government, as demonstrated in the recent successful filibuster.

Governments, of course, are always anxious to bid Parliament farewell, since its presence in Ottawa doubles the work of the cabinet. But the scrutiny of Parliament and its occasional rebellions are part of the price that all cabinets must pay, and few politicians refuse cabinet office for that or any other reason.

We have reached the point in Canada, reached long ago in Britain, where Parliament cannot expect the prime minister and his leading colleagues to attend all debates and routine parliamentary business must be left for the most part to the ministers directly concerned.

When Parliament is in session most of the year, the cabinet ministers, whose business never ceases for a single day, must attend in rotation as the policies of their various departments come up for discussion.

If this British practice is accepted in Ottawa Parliament should sit throughout the year, with reasonably long interruptions from time to time so that members can visit their constituencies, keep abreast of their local problems and meet their constituents. If Parliament met in the autumn, adjourned for some weeks in midwinter and finished its session toward midsummer all the present difficulties of timing and the last-minute rush could be eliminated.

So long as Parliament tries to cram a year's business into six months or less—usually exceeding its schedule—this summer's unhappy spectacle will be repeated, at the cost of much wear and tear on Parliament itself and inadequate debate of important policies.

With a Three-Year Lead

REVELATIONS AT THE ATOMS-for-peace conference in Geneva have been eye-openers for the man in the street. It has been commonly supposed that atomic power plants are a thing of the far distant future, that current research is only in the experimental stage and that the reactor is as yet little more than a scientists' plaything.

The atomic-powered submarine launched recently by the United States showed the practicality of such a project, of course, but the very nature of the atom's employment in this case placed it beyond the average person's experience. The projected large atomic powered electric plant in that country is also an isolated example and still in the planning stage.

Canada, according to Geneva reports, is preparing to build atomic plants in Ontario—perhaps ten of them in the next fifteen years. But these will be merely auxiliary to the existing large-scale hydro plants, and will produce power at a cost considerably above that of conventional water power.

Poisonous Seeds

MR. WARREN, THE PARKS commissioner, is quite right, we think, in saying that the city's laburnum trees should not be destroyed, merely because their seeds are poisonous.

If such a policy were applied to every remote danger in the community we should remove all our ancient oaks because their limbs sometimes fall off. We should prohibit various garden flowers whose foliage, roots or seeds contain poison. And if we are to attempt by law to abolish every possible danger then our first target should be the automobile which is certain to kill several and injure many people every year.

Of all imaginable dangers to human life in modern society the seed of the laburnum is probably the least, and that danger can surely be cured if children are warned against eating the seed. Every household contains drugs and poisons much more likely to be eaten by children and they seldom do any harm. The publicity given to one of our most beautiful ornamental trees and its dangerous little fruit should be a sufficient warning to the public.

Shock and Hate By the Plateful

THE WELL-INTENTIONED president of the International Vegetarian Union, Mrs. Gloria Gasque, is on record with the comment that the problems of the world are due to meat-eaters because "the vibration from shock and hate of the animal being killed is transferred to the people who eat the meat."

We question this on two grounds. First, the victims of the slaughterhouse, we understand, are dead before they know it, and do not have time to send out vibrations of shock and hate. Secondly, why confine such feelings, if they do exist, to animals and those who eat them?

It is not only the animal kingdom that can suffer from death wounds. Who has not heard a stately tree groan in anguish as it falls under the axe? Who has not been viciously attacked by rose bush or blackberry bramble as he sought to wrench flower or fruit from the branch? Who has not speculated on the agony, not to say shock and hate, of grass as it is periodically decapitated by the lawn mower? To limit such suffering to the fauna, neglecting the sympathetic consideration due to the flora, is to take a very inhumane attitude toward the vast majority of the living things with which we share the earth.

Thus the vegetarian is not a whit more humane than the most abandoned glutton of juicy steaks. Each has killed to satisfy his own needs and pleasures; each lives at the expense of other forms of life; each, Mrs. Gasque, preys on his environment.

We'll have just another small helping of steak, thanks, with a few more peas, plunged alive into boiling water; a spoonful of potatoes, wrenched bodily from the maternal plant, boiled and mashed; and a stick or two of asparagus, slashed brutally from their stalks and fairly quivering with shock and hate.

LOOSE ENDS

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

The Man in the Lake

THERE is something quite delicious in the recent spectacle of Mr. Molotov taking an ambassador's wife for a summer voyage in a row-boat and dunking her in Mr. Bulganin's private lake. But we must not laugh too quickly when we find that the world's most wily diplomat and supreme fixer is a poor hand with an oar. The reader who laughs at this news should remember that he probably would be a poor hand with the weapons of the cold war.

Mr. Molotov is so subtle, indeed, and so incalculable that one is even inclined to suspect that the dunking was planned and deliberate, the ambassador's wife selected as an innocent victim and the whole episode contrived at a meeting of the Politburo as a major stroke in the great Russian peace offensive.

FOR what could be better calculated to prove that the Iron Men of the Kremlin are merely human and even a trifle rusty than the news that Mr. Molotov can't row?

If international communism wished to remove its usual mask of fury and put on the smiling face of peace, for the time being at least, the scene on Mr. Bulganin's lake was a masterpiece of stagecraft.

At one moment Mr. Molotov bestrides the world like a colossus—old Stone-bottom, as he is called in the private bar of the United Nations, or the best filing clerk in Europe as he was called by Lenin, his original discoverer. Next moment Mr. Molotov is sitting in a lake with a lady from Indonesia, as helpless and human as any holiday maker at Brighton, Cannes or Coney Island. And of course it was at the holiday makers of such places, at the ordinary man through-out the Western world, that the whole garden party in Mr. Bulganin's summer residence was aimed.

THE party, in short, was arranged to prove that the rulers of Russia are simple, kindly and harmless folk like the rest of us, and Mr. Molotov's surprise denouement, like an old-fashioned, custard-pie comedy from Hollywood, instantly conveys that message in priceless pantomime.

There was more to it than that. To begin with, what will the philosopher of communism, the idealist of human equality, the believer in Marx's classless and just society, the naive fellow traveler in foreign lands—what will he think of a so-called Russian communism which provides its privileged class, its new nobility and real capitalists with all the trappings and perquisites of privilege?

Where is the classless society when Mr. Bulganin lives a life of luxury which the dead emperors of Russia might well envy, which, no Western statesman could possibly afford?

WHAT was the ghost of Marx thinking when he beheld that garden party, like something out of King Louis' celebrations at Versailles, and his faithful apostle, Mr. Molotov, wallowing in the water to rescue his fair guest from Indonesia?

What were the thoughts of Lenin, who hardly owned a decent suit of clothes and seldom got three square meals a day through most of his lifetime? And what would the glacial Stalin say if he discovered his foreign minister acting like a comedian to rouse the laughter of the world's groundlings?

MR. Molotov and Mr. Bulganin would doubtless answer that their comic week-end inspiration had served its purpose just as well as Stalin's sustained act of tragedy. It humanized the Kremlin, and that takes quite a bit of doing.

Mr. Bulganin must have spent a pretty penny on his entertainment but probably regarded it as a good investment in what we of the West call public relations. No high-powered advertising man in New York could have dreamed up a better gimmick. Russia is rapidly learning modern methods of business and politics.

It is learning another thing as well—that the people of the Western world, especially the people of the English-speaking world, are the most ineffectual haters in all history. They are simply incapable of prolonged hatred and will abandon it with a sigh of relief if you give them half a chance—if, for example, you sink a rowboat, sing a song at a garden party or hoist a glass of champagne to prove that there is nothing but goodness in your heart.

TWICE within one generation the English-speaking world has been unable to sustain for more than a few years its hatred of the Germany which almost destroyed it. Japan was bombed, defeated and forbidden by written constitution ever to raise a military force, and yet today is not only an ally of the United States but is being hard pressed, against its will, to build a new army.

Now we are finding to our surprise that we don't even hate the Russians, though they have almost pushed civilization over the edge of limbo in the last year or two.

The Russians collectively must be very much like us, if we could only discover them. The score of Russians who rule the state must be quite different, or they wouldn't have sought those jobs by agony, violence and conspiracy in the first place.

SUCH men may regard the West as soft, stupid and helpless because it cannot long maintain the flame of anger, when it so quickly forgets Stalin at Yalta, the Berlin blockade, the Korean war and all the record of the last grim decade.

This, however, would be the crowning blunder of all Russia's blunders which, oddly enough, have passed for brilliant diplomacy. The West in fact is strong primarily because it has so little time to waste on hatred, intrigue and regret. It is great and invincible mainly because it can laugh at Mr. Molotov wallowing in the lake or itself wallowing in the world revolution. I suspect Mr. Molotov has yet to learn that lesson.

As Our Readers See It

LABURNUM TREES

In a ghouliah article entitled "Your Garden a Death Trap?" Ald. Macmillan says "there have been no deaths—yet" (referring to kids eating laburnum seeds).

Throughout the long years that laburnum trees have flourished in a myriad of cities, have medics ever reported a youngster dying from eating laburnum seeds?

Of laburnums in my garden (more truthfully my jungle, owing to inability to employ a gardener to keep up with the Joneses) one laburnum has grown infinitely more graceful and higher than the others, because year after year I have reached up and easily snapped in two its branches which obscured plants growing on the slope behind.

Neither could the little people reach the branches of this graceful tree. What will they endeavor to teach us to be scared of next?

G. SHRAPNEL.

1578 Clive Drive.

AT LEAST ONE OR TWO

People who ridicule religion, as Messrs. Pepper and Staverman do in letters you publish, do not seem to realize that they are examples of false religious teaching.

True religious teaching corrects their falsities, but as this involves human freedom, they fail to appreciate even this.

They know, for example, that adultery is against religion, which is acknowledged by those who believe aright. And the same holds good with the other commandments. Those who teach faith alone, also fail to acknowledge this truth. But nevertheless the Christian religion teaches otherwise. They know it, but in freedom repudiate it. Which is why they are walking examples of false religion. Somewhere is no reason to ask which of the 2,000 odd religions is correct. There are at least one or two which teach the truth. These are sufficient for those who desire the real thing.

Limitation Set By Constitution

Regarding your editorial criticizing the Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council (July 26) for the size of its donation to the Solarium building fund:

The Constitution of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada provides specifically that Council funds may not be donated except for Trade Union purposes.

The Council by-laws provide that, after investigation, a token donation not exceeding $5 may be made to any cause as an indication to our affiliated unions that it has the Council's endorsement and is worthy of support.

You could have obtained this information by telephoning this office.

Dictatorship by Committee

By STEWART ALSOP From Moscow

THERE IS NO question about it. The Soviet regime really is a dictatorship without a dictator, an authoritarian regime run on a committee system. This seems incredible when you first think about it. But it seems perfectly logical when you think about it a little more.

Joseph Stalin was a suspicious man by nature, paranoid in his suspicions towards the end of his life. He had, moreover, every reason for knowing that a potential dictator is a dangerous man to have around. How logical, therefore, it is to suppose that Stalin would be careful to have around him men who were not potential dictators, men who were, indeed, congenital No. 2 men.

Remember, furthermore, that these congenital No. 2 men lived out their lives, while the old dictator still breathed, in perpetual fear of destruction at the hands of the secret police who were the instrument of the dictator's will. How further logical, therefore, to suppose the No. 2 men would share one mutual object—to smash the instrument of terror, to make sure that the secret police would never again place them in fear of their lives.

All the known facts fit this theory—the fact that Beria was shot, the fact that Malenkov was not shot, the fact that the secret police chief is now a career cop, responsible to the Presidium as a whole rather than any single member.

The theory seems all the more convincing when you rub shoulders with the presidium members, which any Westerner in Moscow can do to his heart's content these days. For the present Soviet bosses look very much like the sort of men a suspicious old dictator, who wanted able men to serve him but who wanted no truck with potential rivals, might gather around him.

BRILLIANT TECHNICIANS

Saburov and Pervukhin look like brilliant technicians, which is what they undoubtedly are. Molotov may be the ablest of the lot, but he is essentially a technician too. Voroshilov is a handsome non-entity. Mikoyan and Kaganovich are tough, wily professional political operators, but they do not have the smell of supreme power about them. Nor does Bulganin, although Bulganin does have a certain air of authority, rather in the manner of a southern colopel of the mint julep tradition.

Aside from the new men, that leaves Khrushchev and Malenkov, the two most interesting figures in Russia today.

At a recent western reception, this reporter had a conversation lasting about 10 minutes with Khrushchev. Khrushchev grabbed my hand in both of his, and hung on like a vice for the whole 10 minutes. He went on at some length about how he had read what I had written about the Soviet Union; did not like it; but hoped that some day I would be able to find out the truth about the Soviet Union and tell the American people.

CLOSE CONTACT

Alas, when I did my level best to get a real interview out of him he immediately caught on, and smilingly blocked every effort. But at least this rather uncomfortably close contact made it possible to sense something of the quality of the man.

He is really a very ugly man indeed. He has tiny little eyes, and a big loose mouth, teeth copiously decorated with steel fillings, and a barrel-shaped figure. But he has enormous vitality, and the odd charm which great vitality imparts.

Because he looks so much like a peasant out of Tolstoy (crossed, perhaps with a mid-western isolationist politician) and because he has been known to get publicly cock-eyed, there has been, in this reporter's view, a tendency to underestimate Khrushchev. If he is a peasant, he is a remarkably shrewd peasant with an extraordinary talent for survival and a great taste for power.

Malenkov is an entirely different manner of man. All the Soviet rulers now smile constantly and with ferocious determination in the presence of westerners. But whereas a grin comes easily to Khrushchev's lips, smiling is obviously a frightful effort to the saturnine Malenkov.

Perhaps recent experiences have made it difficult for Malenkov to smile easily. He is the living embodiment of what one westerner here called "the first Soviet experiment in demotion instead of annihilation," and it is still not entirely certain that the experiment will succeed.

Even so, some shrewd western observers would bet on Malenkov rather than Khrushchev, because of his youth and unquestioned intelligence. But this reporter's instinctive feeling, for what it is worth, is that Malenkov is also essentially a technician and a No. 2 man.

This feeling seems to be supported by Khrushchev's recent remarks to an Asian ambassador here. Khrushchev volunteered that the trouble with Malenkov was that he wanted to run Russia like a bureaucrat, with rules and regulations for everything. But, said Khrushchev, you can't rule Russia that way—in Russia, you have to be ready for anything, a bad crop failure, threatened famine, for example.

NAKED POWER

These remarks very clearly suggest that Khrushchev has no doubt that the demoted Malenkov will stay demoted. They further suggest that Khrushchev believes in naked power more than rules and regulations. Together with other evidence of Khrushchev's increasing power, they could even be taken to mean that Khrushchev is on his way to the position of supremacy that Stalin once occupied.

Yet a return to the Stalinist pattern of dictatorship just does not seem likely, at least in the near future. For one thing, the re-imposition of a true Stalinist dictatorship would require the reinstatement of the secret police as the dictator's chief instrument of terror. The most experienced observers believe that any attempt to revive the old police terror would unite the army, the bureaucracy, and even the Khrushchev-controlled party in last-ditch opposition.

For another thing—and this is again a matter of extremely fallible instinct—Khrushchev just does not have the smell of a dictator about him. Unlike though it may seem, the best bet seems to be that the present committee system will continue for a long time, with Khrushchev cast in the role of chairman of the committee, but not dictator.

MARKED for READING

UNIVERSAL LANGUAGE

The first night I got to Rome I went to a masked ball. The only Italian I knew was a hanger-on from the war, Niente Tedesci, no Germans, or Molto Tedesci, many Germans, and that was much use at a masked ball. After midnight, when the masks were off, I went up to Gina Lollbrigida, gave her a sweet smile and said, "Dove?" which I thought meant "How do you do?" but the way I said it I'd said "Where?" and so established a reputation for the Anglo-Saxons not being so backward as they're supposed to be.

—Derek Bond, the English actor

CONSULAR DIGESTION

I have survived earthquakes in Peru, cyclones in Havana and hurricanes in the Caribbean. But the worst peril perhaps is to one's digestion—which has to cope with the many banquets of strange food and parties of strange drinks which are an indispensable part of the job. At any rate, nobody could say it was a dull career. I know I have enjoyed mine.

Sir Henry Hobson, British Consul in many parts of the world.

BORN TO CRIME

Crime, like charity, begins at home. The first cause, in my opinion, is the unhappy home. But every child is born with criminal tendencies and without moral training they will become predominant.

C. A. Joyce, Headmaster of a British Approved School.

Writing Style

I'm in no fit state to write a column this morning. I'm in no fit state because I sat up half the night reading Rebecca West's "A Train of Powder."

It was a crazy thing to do, but reading time is precious in the holidays, and, anyhow, once started on the book, I couldn't put it down.

It is, according to the jacket, "Six brilliant reports on aspects of our lawless times."

There are three sections on post-war Germany (1946, 1949 and 1954). A fourth section describes a lynching case in Greenville, Carolina. Another deals with the English murder of Mr. Setty and the trial of David Hume. The last section, called "A Better Mousetrap" is about the 1952 espionage trial of Willie Marshall.

For me, the fascination of the book lay in its writing style. Because Rebecca West or so it seems to me—writes with the intellect of a man and the perception of a woman and possesses a prose style that few modern writers of English can equal, let alone surpass.

Brutal murder trials are not normally my dish of tea, but "Opera in Greenville" and "Mr. Setty and Mr. Hume" more than held my attention all the way through. They absolutely gripped me. To quote the blurb, which for once is accurate, "What were nine-day circuses in the yellow press are here transmuted into masterly studies of socio-psychic cause and effect."

It's partly that Rebecca West has the gift of taking the reader there, right there, so that he too can sense the atmosphere of the courtroom or scene which she describes, and almost see and hear and touch the people.

Ruth

If any high school teacher wants to show her students what graphic modern writing is, she couldn't do better, I fancy, than read them the description of Mr. Tiffen finding the horrible parcel in the shallow, tidal waters of the mudflats.

There are descriptive sentences in this book that I know will stay with me for years. Like this passage from the Nuremberg Trial which begins—"Hess was noticeable because he was so plainly mad; so plainly mad that it seemed shameful that he should be tried..." And Streicher, "...a dirty old man of the sort that gives trouble in parks..." Of Goering, it is written "Sometimes he wore a German Air Force uniform, and sometimes a light beach suit in the worst of playful taste, and both hung loosely on him, giving him an air of pregnancy."

The vast villa where the correspondent stayed was "a mansion, dropical with whimsy." The interior of one room was "panelled with carefully chosen marble, some of the color of meat, some of gray." In an alcove on a pedestal, was a group of life-size statues, representing the founder of the firm playing with his little son and daughter. "On his abundant beard, on the little girl's ringlets, on everybody's buttons and boots, the sculptor had worked with particularly excited care."

Schacht, when he heard his sentence, became "stiffer than ever, stiff as an iron stag in the garden of an old house."

But it's hopeless to start quoting. The brilliant, gemlike sentences are scattered all through the book. The scenes, and characters are unforgettable.

And this book is written with STYLE. It seems to me that anyone interested in writing should read "A Train of Powder" with a careful and critical eye. For no one should be too proud to learn from a master of the craft.

LONDON LETTER

By WALLACE REYBURN

Britons Fight for Canals

LONDON—Londoners are likely in the fall to be able to have a close-up of two of the giant hands of Big Ben. What is probably the most famous clock in the world now has a maze of steel scaffolding around it, while workmen get busy on repairs of wartime damage.

Reyburn

The job will take a year and a half and in the course of it the clock itself is going to be stopped and dismantled for an overhaul.

Organizers of a Five Centuries of British Time-keeping exhibition for next October (watch King Charles wore on the scaffold is to be included) hope they'll be allowed to borrow two of Big Ben's eight hands for display.

NEW SHOW upcoming is "Moby Dick in Rehearsal," a play about some theatrical people preparing to stage a production based on the famous Melville book. It is written by Orson Welles. It is directed by him. He is taking the three leading parts. But I understand he's hired someone else to raise and lower the curtain.

THE REASON the soccer authorities have had to raise the price of admission for all the League games next season by four cents to 30 cents is that folks here just aren't flocking to soccer as they used to. Last winter attendances dropped by over two million to 34 million. That still means more than a million Britons watch soccer each week but the soccer bosses apparently aren't getting enough money out of them.

FAVORITE DRINK of Joan Crawford (honeymooning over here with soft drink king Alfred Steel) has nothing soft about it. She says she never takes anything else but a special—very strong—type of vodka. To make sure she's never stranded without it, she travels with bottles of it in an ice-packed bag.

BRITAIN HAS over 2,000 miles of canals laced in and out throughout the countryside. They used to be an economic way of hauling coal and other commodities. But many of them don't pay their way any more and the Transport Commission has earmarked 770 of them to be filled in and converted to roads or pastureland.

Among the condemned ones: Bath to Reading, Clyde-Forth, Kennet-Avon and the Manchester, Bolton and Bury canals. Up in arms is the Inland Waterways Association, which is going to fight to keep the water in them. Main cause of protest: anglers say that scrapping the canals will take away their only means of fishing. Dear old England.

A MUSICAL VERSION of "Sunset Boulevard" is being put on in London, with grandma Gloria Swanson doing a singing and dancing interpretation of her film role of a Hollywood has-been.

PETER BROUGH, England's Edgar Bergen, tells the story of a theatrical producer who caved in under the strain of overwork and found himself in a sanatorium. He kept screaming, "I want a play! Where's my play!" To humor him, a doctor handed him a telephone directory and said, "Here's your new play." The producer quieted down and next day on his rounds the doctor found him still happily thumbing through the directory. "How do you like the play?" the doctor asked. Replied the producer: "I haven't got to the dialogue yet—but what a cast!"

How to Tame Your Wife

A WINTER CLASS

HOME GARDEN

By JACK BEASTALL

Now's Time to Put Winter Greens Out

Young plants of winter cabbage, Brussels sprouts, and hardy kale which are still in the cold frame or nursery rows, should be transferred to permanent quarters as soon as possible.

The first vacancies in the garden are usually where potatoes have been dug. Give these spots a dusting of lime and be sure to make the soil firm before setting out any of the cabbage family.

All members of the crucifer tribe, including wallflowers, alyssum, and some other popular flowers, do not succeed if their roots are in loose soil.

One of the advantages of pruning black currants soon after the fruit has been gathered is that the young shoots which will bear next season's crop have a longer period in which to ripen.

Wood which has fruited may be removed entirely, but the young shoots should be retained. While some gardeners prefer a black currant bush with a clean stem, this fruit is never so happy as when sending up numerous new growths from below soil level.

The more shoots from underground which a bush produces during a season, the more old wood the gardener may remove when pruning.

Clean stems are good for red and white currants which fruit on old wood, but black currants need all the new growths possible for an abundant and delicious crop.

Ontario Heat Kills Thousands of Fish

MATTAWA, Ont. (CP)—Ontario lands and forests officials said today the high temperature of the Ottawa river killed thousands of fish near here.

Ken Irizawa of Pembroke, Ont., and R. H. Millett, biologist from Toronto, said the water temperature caused a lack of oxygen resulting in death of the fish.

Mattawa is 200 miles northwest of Ottawa.

ON PRESIDENCY

Stevenson Announcement In November

CHICAGO (UP)—Adlai E. Stevenson said last night he would announce "by the end of November" whether he would seek the Democratic presidential nomination in 1956.

The former Illinois governor refused to tell a news conference whether he had made up his mind yet, but said he believes if he does win the nomination he could defeat President Eisenhower.

Mr. Stevenson talked to reporters following a dinner given for him by former Democratic national chairman Stephen A. Mitchell.

By DENNY BOYD

EMPIRE STADIUM, Vancouver—The B.C. Lions of 1955 have more teeth, sharper claws and a meaner twirl in their tails than the scrawny, pussy-cat version of 1954.

This year's version of Annis Stukus' Western Interprovincial Football Union club went on review at Empire Stadium Wednesday night for the edification of 22,448 fans, most of them still being able to remember those grisly days of the 1954 season when the Lions hobbled to a horrid 1-15 record.

But that memory was blotted out by a flood of delicious joy and a tidal-wave of enthusiasm that followed Lions' 30-24 victory over Toronto Argos on Wednesday's exhibition.

From centre out to tackle, it is pretty well the same Lion team of last year—Arnie Weinmeister and a few well-chosen friends. But on the ends and in the back-field, the Lions have everything they lacked last year.

Lions took the wraps off quarterback Arnold Galiffa, the former West Point star, and Galiffa wowed 'em. A heavy signal-caller, a deceptive ball-handler and a passable runner when the need arises, Galiffa is above all pin-point passer and, in import ends Dana Edwards and Mac Speedie, Galiffa has two great terminal points for his heaves.

More of the Same in Reserve

When Galiffa isn't running the team, Lions can call on Ron Clinkscales, who is so valuable he is a first string halfback as well as a second-string quarterback. Clinkscales was good enough Wednesday to toss two scoring passes, hitting Gil Bartosh with pitches of 38 and 10 yards in the last quarter.

And speaking of Bartosh, that brings up the point that the Lions are overloaded with half-back material.

Bartosh, a former TCU Horned Frog, was running like a tank and catching passes like fly-paper should work. He scored three touchdowns. Then there is Primo Villanueva, a slightly-built will-o'-wisp who is as hard to catch as a puff of smoke. He can pass, kick and is a strong defensive halfback. Jim Garrett, a solid 190-pounder, is a business-like, straight-ahead runner who keeps driving until buried under tacklers. Lions still have handyman fullback Al Pollard, who was most of the team last year. Pollard sat out the second half Wednesday night, resting a twisted knee but not before he had scored the first touchdown of the game.

Pollard Started Lions Rolling

Pollard went 25 yards on the trap play to open the game and two plays later, Galiffa passed Edwards down to the one-yard line from which point Pollard pulled Shatto down on the 13. Chuck Holmes exploded over centre and shed two tacklers on his spring to pay-dirt. Bartosh scored another converted touchdown in the first quarter, on a two-yard plunge and Bob Holburn fell on a fumble in the Argo end zone in the second quarter to match Argo's touchdown, engineered through Tom Dubinski's pass-gain and the chastened Bennett.

Dubinski Successor to Jacobs?

Dubinski, who jumped the Detroit Lions to join Argos, may be the passer to make Canadian fans forget the great Indian Jack Jacobs.

In the second quarter major, Dubinski passed 40 yards to Bucky Curtis and then 12 to hook-handed Al Pfeiffer for the score.

The tally was 18-11 for Lions at the half but Toronto picked up a converted major and a single to tie it in the third quarter.

Galiffa and the line-drive throwing Dubinski waged a pulse-raising aerial battle in the second half but it was those two heaves on Clinkscales' to Bartosh in the last quarter that fused it.

Statistically, Argos got only 47 yards along the ground but picked up 410 yards through an unimpressive Lion pass defence. Lions completed 17 of 30 throws while Argos clicked on 24 of 47.

In other exhibition games across the nation, Saskatchewan Roughriders defeated Montreal Alouettes, 12-3 at Montreal before 20,276 while Edmonton Eskimos, Grey Cup champs took a 21-6 victory over Hamilton Ti-Cats.

Seattle Softball Ace Fails Baseball Test

(By The Associated Press)

Seattle manager Fred Hutchinson tried Bob Fesler, softball pitching ace, against eighth-place San Francisco in both ends of a Pacific Coast League doubleheader Wednesday night and the guinea pig Seals won both games, 5-3 and 13-5.

Fesler, who has scored some 55 softball shutouts with his whirling windmill delivery, quickly learned that things were different in regulation ball.

The Seals rolled five runs across in the opening game's first inning on two hits, five walks, two wild pitches and a balk. John Oldham, throwing in orthodox style, shut out the Seals the rest of the way.

Hutchinson again tied the Fesler experiment in the final two innings of the second game, when Seattle was trailing 9-5. Fesler again had control trouble, walking four, throwing two wild pitches and hitting one batter.

Wayne Belardi drove one of Fesler's pitches for a two-run homer in the second game. In three innings in both games Fesler yielded nine runs.

Ross Real Ironman; City Edges Arrows

City 4, Arrows 3

Since Victoria City lost the services of pitcher Dennis Beaulac coach Bud Ross' pitching corps has gone down to himself and John Oliver. Since July 17, when Beaulac left town, Ross has been in nine straight games—one in relief and eight as a starting pitcher—and, except for two five-inning stints in Vancouver over the week-end, Ross has gone the whole way.

Wednesday night at Central Park he picked up his 10th win of the season as City stopped Arrow Furniture 4-3 in a Senior A Men's Softball League contest.

Third-place City are now three points in front of Chinese Students and the make-up of the semifinals in the Senior A Men's Softball League is practically set.

Utility Softball

Hudson's Bay defeated City Hall 4-1, and Mc & Mc downed Wagners News Depot, 13-4, in the opening games of best-of-three semi-final series for the Utility Softball League championship this week.

Second games in both series will be played tonight at MacDonald Park at 6:45.

Fletchers now only have to win one of their final four games to gain the league title. Wednesday it was a nip-and-tuck game with Ross and Rod Turner matching pitch for pitch. City scored once in the top of the second, and Arrows took the lead in the last of the third on a triple by Turner, walk to Whitey Turner and three throwing errors.

City went ahead again in the fifth on three hits and two bad throws by Arrows' infield, only to see the losers tie up the game in the last of the seventh on a run-producing single by Don Robinson.

Victoria City broke the tie in the top of the eighth after lead-off batter Don Wilkie doubled to left centre and scored on a passed ball and wild pitch.

Tonight Fletchers can sew up the flag against United Services; a loss will put the Service team definitely out of post-season play. Game time is 6:45.

Rae Doesn't Look 'Mad'

Miss Rae Milligan of Jasper, Alta., explained her victory over Mrs. Elizabeth McIntyre of Royal Colwood in the Canadian golf championships Wednesday after being dornie three at 16th simply, by saying, "I just got mad." She took the final three holes to square the match and won it on the 19th. See story. (Times photo.)

Champs Tumble In Seniors' Golf

Three former champions fell by the wayside Wednesday in the hotly-contested quarter-finals of the 33rd annual Seniors' Northwest Golf Association Tournament at Victoria Golf Club.

SENIORS' GOLF RESULTS

The list of the defeated included defending champion Oscar Willing, who lost to Pete McIntyre of Trail on the 18th green; 1952 winner Roger Peck who bowed to Seattle's Ralph Whaley on the 19th hole; and 1948 champion, Gerry McManama, who fell before the blistering game of Ed Eisenhower, 6 and 3.

In the only quarter-final battle of non-former champions, twice-defeated finalist Harry Andrews moved ahead with a 4 and 3 win over Ralph Parker.

In today's semi-final draw, Whaley went against Andrews while Eisenhower met McIntyre.

By virtue of his gritty win, McIntyre became the first Canadian semi-finalist since 1952. And McIntyre had to do it the hard way, canning an eight-foot putt for a birdie three on the 18th.

Whaley, one under par for the first nine, was two up over Peck after nine and won the 10th and 11th to take a four-hole lead.

But the unruffled Peck suddenly found the touch. He birdied the short 13th and parred the next holes to square the match. Whaley dunked a difficult 30-footer on the 16th for a hole-winning birdie three but Peck wouldn't quit, winning the 18th to force the extra hole.

Whaley won the 19th and the match with a par as Peck drove into the rough and caught a bunker with his approach.

Eisenhower was two strokes under par on the front nine as he pilled up a four-hole lead over McManama and ended the match with a birdie two on the 13th to finish three under par.

KLUSZEWSKI, MANTLE TOP POLL

BY JACK CUDDY
United Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (UP)—Who's the hardest hitter in baseball today?

Dugout consensus indicates a toss-up between Ted Kluszewski of the Redlegs, Mickey Mantle of the Yankees, Duke Snider of the Dodgers and Larry Doby of the Indians.

"The only man I've ever seen hit a ball with as much power as Kluszewski was Lou Gehrig. Klu hits a ball so hard that he leaves the imprint on his bat."

This is no idle statement by Tebbetts inasmuch as the last part of it is verified by ball boys around the National League.

Big Johnny Mize, another extraordinary power hitter during his prime, agrees with Tebbetts.

Betty Good, Rae Better, But Marlene Still Best

Alberta Junior Gives Miss Stewart Battle

By BILL WALKER

ROYAL COLWOOD GOLF CLUB—When they get around to analyzing this year's Canadian Ladies' Open golf championships, they may have to put Marlene Stewart at the top of the hit parade but, in Alberta the tune could be:

"Wait 'till Betty grows up" or "We still got Rae."

Marlene belongs, because she proved it last week with a 223 total in the Close. She rates because she has never yet been over par here in a medal round. And she proved it again Wednesday, if that was needed, with what she described as "one of the hardest matches I ever had."

That's where Alberta's Betty Stewart Stanhope, comes in.

Miss Stanhope, the Alberta

junior champion, was the gal matched with Miss Stewart Wednesday, the gal who eventually lost to Miss Stewart, 5 and 3. Sure, the score sounds a trifle overwhelming, but it was only so because Miss Stewart was five under par when it finished and Betty had matched the champ almost stroke for stroke and birdie for birdie, until three holes from the end.

Pars were good, birdies were better and once-even an eagle was needed in this one.

Betty Would Have Beaten Anyone Else

Miss Stewart jumped into a quick lead on the first two holes with a pair of pars to be two up. She came out of the trap on the third to within 16 inches of the pin, and it seemed a rout would be in order. But Betty was built of stern stuff. She sank a four-footer for a birdie four to get a half. Then on the fourth Betty did it again. She knocked in a 10-footer for a birdie two after Marlene had dunked a 16-footer for a deuce, the hole being halved.

Betty continued her birdie making with a four on the 513-yard fifth to be one down. Normal pars were the order on the sixth with Marlene winning the seventh with a par three to take a two-hole lead to the turn, eight and nine being halved in pars. Marlene was two under at this point and Betty even par.

Dormie at 16, Rae Scorched Elizabeth

But this is only one part of the Alberta verse.

Just about the time the Stewart-Stanhope match was ending Rae Milligan of Jasper was in the process of being "mad."

She was "mad" at myself for what I had been doing wrong all day," and she took it out on Mrs. Elizabeth McIntyre of the host club.

It happened this way. Mrs. McIntyre had parlayed a one-hole lead at the turn, into a three-hole lead over Miss Milligan by the 15th. She had done it by winning the 10th when Miss Milligan was out of

It seemed that no one could match Marlene, especially when she got a birdie four on the 10th. But Betty had the answer there. She put a three-iron shot six feet from the flag and won the hole with an eagle three. Marlene threw another birdie at Betty on the 11th and it was good over Betty's four.

On the 12th they were down in par fives. Then Betty slipped to a bogey on 13, where she three putted. That was her cardinal sin. Three up, Marlene stepped in and got yet another birdie on 14 to Betty's five. Dormie, and yet one under par. Betty conceded the 15th and the match when she had bunker trouble.

Brilliant as was Marlene, it could be said of Betty that if she had been playing anyone else on Wednesday she would be birdie hunting again today.

Dot Was in Too Tough

Victoria's Dot Herbertson had it tough, too, in losing to tournament medalist Mrs. Edean Ihlanfeldt of Seattle, 2 and 1.

Mrs. Ihlanfeldt was in six traps during the day, recovering for one-putt greens four times.

Miss Herbertson lost the first hole to a par four, and was two down at the third to Mrs. Ihlanfeldt's birdie four. They traded holes from the fifth through the eighth, Miss Herbertson winning five and seven in par and Mrs. Ihlanfeldt taking six with a birdie four, and the eighth in par to be two up at the turn.

The former Canadian champion (1952), Mrs. Ihlanfeldt birdied the 10th to go three up and won the 12th in par five to hold a four-hole margin. Miss Herbertson got back two holes with pars at 13 and 15, but the task was too much and a pair of fives on 16 and 17 saw Mrs. Ihlanfeldt through.

In other matches Mrs. Katie Wilson of Lethbridge defeated Mrs. W. E. Knox of Vancouver, 1 up, after holding that edge at the turn. Miss Mary Gay of Kitchener used three birdies on the back nine to dispose of Shirley Woodley of Toronto, 3 and 2, after being all square at the end of the first nine.

Junior star Miss Sheila Collins of Dundas, Ont., eliminated Mrs. Joan Lawson of Victoria, 3 and 2. Mrs. Doreen Brown of Winnipeg, scored a one-up victory over Canadian junior champion Noreen Laing of Toronto, and Miss Sheila Ross of Vancouver defeated Roma Neundorff of Toronto, 1 up.

Joan Lost Her Chances Early

Mrs. Lawson, in losing to Miss Collins, never really recovered from a two-hole deficit that faced her when she lost the fourth and fifth after squaring the match on the third. She won the seventh in par to be one down, but lost the eighth to a bogey five, the 10th to a birdie four, and the 11th to a birdie three. She won the 14th with a par five and halved the remaining two holes.

Mrs. Brown led Miss Laing by one hole at the end of the first nine, lost the 11th to a birdie three and the 13th to a par four to go one down. She then birdied the 16th in four to square the match and won it on 17 with a par four.

In matches today, Mrs. Ihlanfeldt was meeting Mrs. Wilson. Miss Milligan was playing Miss Gay, last year's finalist; Miss Stewart was paired against Miss Collins, and Mrs. Brown against Miss Ross.

Semifinals will be played Friday with the finals over 36 holes on Saturday.

MARY GAY ... gains quarter-finals.

SHEILA ROSS ... B.C.'s lone hope.

U.S. Pros Dominated Golf Series

CHICAGO (AP)—United States golf pros swept six of eight matches Wednesday for their foreign colleagues Wednesday to win the two-day international team matches 8½ total points to 3½.

Most lopsided victory was registered by 45-year-old Jimmy Demaret, the veteran whose game is rounding to a peak for Thursday's championship at Tam O'Shanter country club.

Demaret disposed of Stan Leonard of Vancouver 5 and 4, he was three under par for the 14 holes required while Leonard was two over.

Rudy Horvath of Windsor, Ont., was defeated 1 up by Jay Hebert of Woodmere, N. Y., despite a determined rally on the back nine in which he won three consecutive holes to square the match temporarily. Hebert's medal score was 73—one over par—to Horvath's 74.

Jokers Win

Jokers scored an 8-3 victory over Fox (17) and Babe Ruth (16) in more grand slam homers than Kiner, who has 13.

Andy Carey lined a run-scoring single over the head of Ted Williams to break up the Yank-Red Sox duel. Don Larsen, making it three straight since returning from three minors 11 days ago, took it over Frank Sullivan.

KINER'S 13TH GRAND SLAM

Cleveland had home runs by Al Rosen and Hal Naragora in its first in the majors but it was Kiner's clout that won the game.

Only Lou Gehrig (23) and Jimmy Fox (17) and Babe Ruth (16) hit more grand slam homers than Kiner, who has 13.

Andy Carey lined a run-scoring single over the head of Ted Williams to break up the Yank-Red Sox duel. Don Larsen, making it three straight since returning from three minors 11 days ago, took it over Frank Sullivan.

Shamrocks Rock Pils; Meet Tribe in Playoff

Shamrocks 24, Pilseners 6
By BILL RAYNER

Somebody forgot to tell the Victoria Shamrocks to take things easy at Memorial Arena Wednesday night. Reckoning not the possible cost to a tough semi-final looming up Monday with Mount Pleasant Indians and with three players already on the shelf with injuries, the Irish mixed it up freely with Vancouver Pilseners and showed their way to a 24-6 Inter-City Lacrosse League victory.

Pilseners, understandably, had an interest in the violent affray, with a third-place tie with Indians a bare possibility should they have won. The Rocks, however, elected to go all out in their last league home appearance of the season and ran up their biggest scoring margin of the year.

The cost may be a little bit high. Coach Red McMillan, with Bob Monaghan, Whitley Severson and George Johnston already doubtful starters for the first playoff game Monday, saw Nip O'Hearn limp off the floor in the first period with a recurrence of an old ankle injury.

BEDARD PRESSED

QUEBEC (CP)—Jacques Giguere of Quebec extended first-seeded Bob Bedard of Sherbrooke, Que., to five sets Wednesday night before bowing out in the semi-finals of the men's singles in the Quebec City and district tennis championship. Bedard won 4-6, 6-4, 4-6, 6-1, 6-4.

PLAY HERE MONDAY

Indians will then be back at Memorial Arena Monday night for the first game of the best-of-five semifinal against Kinsmen. Second game will go in Vancouver Wednesday, Aug. 17, with the third back in Victoria Friday, Aug. 19.

CULT OF THE COBRA

FROM HENRIK LIND MARSHALL THOMPSON KATHLEEN HUGHES

At 2.30 - 5.15 - 8.40

According to a statistical survey of B.C.'s climate, prepared by the Gonzales weather station for the department of agriculture, Old Sol shone brightly on the city for 1,969 hours during the year.

Vancouver didn't even place on the sunshine tables. With only 1,421 hours, it was far below such centres as Kamloops, 1,880 hours, Fort St. John, 1,582, and Oliver, with 1,773 hours.

HARD TO BELIEVE

Victorians who are convinced it never stopped raining last year will find it hard to believe the city had only 28.64 inches of precipitation.

And if you think that's wet, pity the plight of residents of Ocean Falls, where the ocean literally fell. The up-coast centre caught 193.78 inches of precipitation, and gained the dubious honor of being the wettest place in B.C.

TWICE VICTORIA

Vancouver found nothing to brag about, with a total of 69.36 inches of precipitation, more than twice that of Victoria.

And the driest spot in B.C. during 1954 was at Mission Flats, just outside of Kamloops, where only 9.15 inches of rain and snow was recorded.

For Mission Flats, it was a wet year. Last year it had 25.19 inches of precipitation; in 1953, 19 inches, and in 1952, 33 inches.

Coldest temperatures during 1954 in Victoria was in January, when the mercury dropped to 17 degrees, and the high in June, at 73 degrees.

Vancouver's low was 10 degrees, and the high 76.

(B PLUS) "FOXFIRE"

(Odeon) — Universal-International's "Foxfire" has an interesting plot, passable acting, some good lines and excellent photography yet it falls because of minutia that reduces the whole to the unreal.

First of all, the very basis of a film, if it is to be a success, is credibility. Especially is it true of this one for it is the type of motion picture that is most difficult to put over. In it Jane Russell plays the part of a pampered heiress who falls for half-breed Apache mining engineer Jeff Chandler. After a brief courtship she leaves her ritzy mother and pals for an alien life in a shack on the mining property.

Soon she discovers that the Indian in her husband remains uppermost. In the Apache tradition he believes that there are two worlds, one a husband's to do with what he chooses, and a wife's which is of no concern to him. On the other hand Miss Russell, quite naturally, feels as though she has a right to understand her husband's business as well as to expect him to care whether or not their shack will need an addition for a nursery. Adding to the difficulties, camp gossip makes much of her friendship with hard-drinking mining company doctor Dan Duryea.

At the beginning the story makes fun of itself and the unlikely situations. While this mood lasts "Foxfire" is entertaining fare. But later when it turns deadly serious it is not so palatable. And it is at this stage that the minutia, the small things, spoil the whole irreparably. Most of this can be attributed to Miss Russell's wardrobe which is about as suitable to life in a rough-mining camp as a diamond tiara on a lady wrestler.

UNHAPPY LANDING—Probably most publicized passenger ever to board a Canadian navy ship is Joycelyn Pilapil (left) who stowed away aboard HMCS Athabaskan, travelled from Hawaii to Long Beach, where she was taken in hand by an FBI matron. She is believed to be first stowaway in Canadian naval history. Athabaskan returns to home port at Esquimalt in company with cruiser Ontario and sister destroyer Cayuga 10 a.m. Saturday. An enquiry into the incident will be carried out by the Pacific Command. (NEA Telephoto.)

Federal By-Elections For 4 Seats Sept. 26

OTTAWA (CP)—Federal by-elections will be held Sept. 26 in four traditionally Liberal constituencies. Three are in Quebec, the other in New Brunswick.

The contests, to fill four of six Commons vacancies, may give some indication of voters' reaction to such questions as the sale of wheat and butter to Communist countries.

Two of the Quebec by-elections result from appointments to the Senate of Hon. C. G. Power, wartime air minister who represented Quebec South 38 years, and Jean Francois Pouliot, m.e.m.b.e.r. for Temiscouata for 31 years. The third result from the appointment of J. Philippe Picard, member for Bellechasse since 1940, as Canadian ambassador to Argentina.

Aussie Scout Contingent In Winnipeg

WINNIPEG (CP).—Thirty-four Australian Boy Scouts, fully equipped with tents and boomerangs, stepped off an eastbound CPR train Wednesday night and in less than 50 minutes were assigned to the 34 Winnipeg families that will billet them during their three-day stay here.

The contingent, dressed in traditional scout uniforms and sporting wide smiles for photographers, is in Canada to attend the World Jamboree of Boy Scouts at Niagara-on-the-Lake, Ont., Aug. 18-26. They are part of some 1,500 scouts who will pass through here during the next week on their way to the 59-country event.

The Australians, their luggage and packsacks dotted with "Australian Jamboree Contingent" stickers, will be away from home four months during their round-the-world trip. Besides seeing leading cities in Canada, they will have visited New Zealand, Honolulu, New York and England. They left Sydney, Australia, July 15.

SING FOR TV

Slightly tired from the train trip, the scouts were still able to sing out with "Song of Australia" and "Waltzing Matilda" for a persistent television crew.

October Election In Newfoundland?

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP).—The Daily News says it has been advised by "informal sources close to the government" that a provincial general election will be held in Newfoundland in October.

It quoted the government as saying "ministers of the government and private members have been carrying out intensive campaign activities in their districts during the last few months."

Premier Joseph Smallwood could not be reached for comment.

BEER SALES OFF

LONDON (CP).—Beer consumption in Britain fell from 920,000,000 gallons to 850,000,000 gallons in 1954. Brewers blame bad weather and heavy taxation for the decrease.

She Was Laid Up With RHEUMATIC PAIN

"I had been afflicted with rheumatic attacks ever since I was a girl," writes Mrs. F. Rose, Selkirk, Man. "Four years ago I was in bed tormented by rheumatic pain and unable to work. Then I heard about Templeton's T-R-C's. Soon after I started taking T-R-C's I was able to get out of bed, and walk about and do my work. I only wish I had learned about T-R-C's years ago, for I feel they would have saved me a great deal of suffering."

This welcome relief from nagging pain can be yours. Don't suffer another day from Rheumatic, Arthritic, Sciatic or Neuritic pain. Get Templeton's T-R-C's—Canada's largest-selling proprietary medicine for quick relief from such pain. Only 79c, $1.50 at druggists. 711-4

RCN 'Copters Sell Army on Their Use

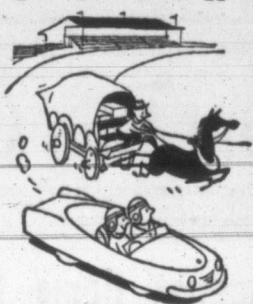

CAMP GAGETOWN, N.B., Aug. 11 (BUP).—The success of Royal Canadian Navy helicopters during "exercise rising star" may lead to the formation of an army helicopter squadron for supply and troop movement, it was indicated today.

While Canada's largest peacetime tactical exercises were in full swing, army officials here kept a close watch on navy helicopter operations in an effort to evaluate the craft's value in the movement of troops out of tight spots. Although it was expected the army would eventually get some of the aircraft.

There were conflicting reports on whether the air force would approve such a move, but many top army officers were known to be in favor of helicopter use. They included Maj. Gen. John M. Rockingham, commander of the 1st Canadian Division, and Maj. Gen. vision, taking part in the current manoeuvres.

Horsepower and HORSE COLLARS

An English sports car that has set 100 world records for its class uses aluminum in its bodywork and in parts of the chassis. ... And a French company is making lightweight aluminum collars for draught horses.

Just goes to show that in this age of aluminum it isn't just the newest marvels that make use of aluminum but some of man's oldest inventions, too. Which is one of the reasons why we have already started work on expanding the ingot capacity of our new development at Kitimat from its present 91,500 tons a year to 331,500 tons.

MASS SWIM POSTPONED

FOLKESTONE, England (CP)—Bad weather today forced a second postponement of an international swimming race across the English channel from France to Britain.

The 18 contestants from 13 countries had hoped to start from Cap Gris Nez at midnight tonight, following a previous 24-hour postponement, for the gruelling 22-mile crossing. But noon weather reports said high winds off the French coast made swimming impossible.

Trucker Escapes in Wild Crash At Colwood Railroad Crossing

Thirty-three-year-old Bill Milne, of Langford, miraculously escaped serious injury today when his fully-loaded logging truck ran up an embankment and overturned during a desperate bid to avoid collision with a CNR freight train on the old island highway at Colwood.

Milne climbed from his cab badly shaken but with only a

JAMMED ROPES LEAVES FLAG AT HALF MAST

Dozens of phone calls poured into the Legislative Buildings inquiry office today as bewildered Victoria residents wondered why the Red Ensign on the building's flagpole was flying at half-mast.

The answer, according to commissioners, was the flag is stuck. A steeplejack, A. Mosely, was hired to untangle the pulleys and lines at the top of the pole, in time for the sunset ceremonies scheduled to be carried out tonight by the Queen's Own Rifles.

Mr. Mosely said he would not have to climb the pole to fix the flag. It jammed about three-quarters of the way up as it was being hauled down at sunset Wednesday.

Warning Plan Considered In Rezoning

A new regulation, which stipulates that all property holders within a 200-foot radius of any property which is to be rezoned be advised of the contemplated action by letter, is before city council.

Hugh Stephen, Town Planning Commission spokesman, said the regulation has been included in a new zoning by-law which is under consideration by city council and due for public hearing September 8.

According to a 1929 zoning by-law which will be replaced by the one under study, advertisement in a local newspaper was the only requirement before a zoning change.

"The Town Planning Commission feels that such advertisements may be missed by a property holder who feels himself affected by such a change. The new clause will ensure that each property holder is personally advised in time for an objection to be registered," he stated.

The letter to the adjoining property holders will state the time, date and place of the necessary public hearing by city council before any change can become legal. The new by-law will affect all residential, commercial and industrial development in the city. It has been in preparation for three years.

Billboards Face Restrictions Under New By-Law

Billboards and signs in residential zones will come under new city regulations if the 1955 zoning by-law is adopted by council. It was learned today.

A public hearing is September 8. The by-law stipulates that in single family dwelling districts only one sign, not exceeding two square feet in area, listing only name and occupation of occupant, is permitted.

"Fort Rent" or "For Sale" signs are limited one to a lot and may not exceed six square feet. School, library or church signs or bulletin boards, may not exceed 12 square feet.

Warning Urged For Pressure In Air Brakes

Logger's Death Ruled Accident

All logging trucks with air brakes should be equipped with lights or buzzers to indicate low air pressure, a coroner's jury, probing the death of Sooke logger John D. Green, 26, recommended today.

A jury returned the recommendation and a verdict of accidental death to Coroner E. C. Hart at an inquest held at Hayward's B.C. Funeral Co.

Green, whose home was at 930 Garthland, was killed Monday, 15 miles northwest of Sooke at Elder Logging Co., when his "runaway" logging truck hit a stump and turned over, crushing him. It was his first day on the job.

His employer, George Seaton, of Seaton Logging Co., Sooke, testified that Green drove the truck to the loading zone, unloaded a trailer and had his lunch. He was jockeying the truck into a position for reloading when the accident occurred.

"Before he started, I asked him how his air pressure was, but he didn't answer," Seaton said. Green moved ahead the required six feet, then his truck gathered speed and headed down the straightaway. According to witnesses, he made no effort to apply brakes. The truck traveled 320 feet down the slight incline and ran up the bank, where it hit a stump and overturned.

"He either froze at the wheel or passed out. That's the only way I can figure it," Seaton said.

OVERHAULED

The logging truck had recently been overhauled and was reported in good working order. It was not determined whether pressure in the air brakes was low at the time of the accident.

Green had planned to marry in September. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Ethel M. Green, Sidney.

Funeral services will be held at Hayward's chapel, Friday at 3 p.m., with Rev. Canon A. E. Greenhalgh officiating. Interment will take place at Royal Oak Burial Park.

POWER SOUGHT

Lake and Puntledge River, can be developed. From these plants on the Island, the commission has a combined potential of 392,000 horsepower.

Tragedy Canyon and Waddington Canyon, the other two sites on the Homatko, would produce 122,200 and 148,000 horsepower respectively. Total for the four sites is 794,000 horsepower.

Using a system of dams, tunnels, canals and flumes, the Chikil-Tatlayoko Lake watershed could boost the potential to 1,089,500 horsepower.

A commission spokesman said "we will need extra power for Vancouver Island in the not too-distant future." He said the power from Upper Campbell and Ladore Falls will be absorbed almost as soon as it is available.

"There are a few small power sites left on the Island, in the nature of 10, 20, and 30,000, but in view of the load growth, they will not begin to meet requirements," he said.

ENGINE QUIT

In the vicinity of Chatham Island the sloop's engine quit, and MacFarland could not get it started. Wings were gusting up to 30 miles an hour, and Cochise drifted dangerously close to the rocks of the island.

MacFarland dropped anchor to keep the sloop off the rocks, but the pitching and tossing of the little craft was so uncomfortable the trio decided to row into Oak Bay in the dinghy.

The set of the tide was against them, and forced them to land at Discovery Island. Meanwhile, air-sea rescue was alerted when Cochise was sighted with none aboard and the dinghy missing.

MacFarland and his companions were found at Discovery Island at 3 a.m. by CKDA's work boat, Chatham Chief, and the search called off.

Purse Agreement Reached For September Races Here

250 Horses for Meet At Sidney Sandown Park

More than 250 thoroughbred horses will be stabled at Sidney's Sandown Race Track for a 14-day race meet September 24 to October 10.

The race meet was assured today with an agreement on purses between the Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Association and the Ascot Jockey Club, Ltd.

Sandown Park was the site of a harness meet in July, but the September meeting will be the first flat racing in Victoria since the close of Willows Park.

The thoroughbreds will arrive in Victoria at the end of the Exhibition Park meet. The best horseflesh in Western Canada will take part in the Sandown meet, according to Ascot Jockey Club head Bill Randall.

The Horsemen's Association, at a conference at Exhibition Park, agreed to run their horses at the Sidney track for minimum $600 purses.

On 10 of the 14 days, there will be $700 feature purses, and on two days, feature purses will be $1,000. Top purses for the other two days will be $800.

Horse owners will receive an additional 5 per cent if the pari-mutuel play averages better than $65,000 a day.

Chief Refused Rooms Because 'He's Indian'

Chief Mungo Martin, famous totem pole carver at Thunderbird Park, said today he has been refused a suite of rooms in Victoria for himself and his wife because he is "an Indian."

The kindly, 76-year-old Indian was deeply hurt, although not bitter over the incident.

"I was told I could get rooms at a rooming house on Elliott Street, but when the landlord found I was an Indian, he turned me down," the chief said.

The chief, who has made native relics for royalty and leading citizens across Canada and the United States, said he was so "cross" at the time that he was tempted to pack up and return to his people living near Alert Bay.

He said he has since been offered another suite of rooms which he thinks he will accept.

His son, David, said: "If that isn't racial discrimination I would like to know what is."

The Attorney-General's department reported it had been informed of the incident and had tried to assist in the matter.

"But we could find no regulations which oblige a man to rent his rooms," said an official. "There was nothing we could do."

Outlook Poor For de Fuca Swims Tonight

Four May Make Plunges Friday

Weather prospects for two first-try Juan de Fuca Strait swims tonight looked poor at noon today with gale force winds expected to continue into the night and rising Friday morning.

Torontonian Bob Quinn and former Victorian Douglas Rivette cancelled scheduled swim tries Wednesday night because of a rough sea, but Quinn was out on a training dip shortly after 8 this morning off Clover Point in spite of buffeting waves.

Plans at noon were to continue with swims tonight if wind dropped sufficiently this evening. Quinn would take off from Clover Point about 8 p.m. if navigator Johnny Veness sanctions a try.

Rivette, a deaf-mute linotype operator of Vancouver, will be advised by navigator Alf Webb, who had planned to send his swimmer off around 9 p.m. from Gonzales Point.

FOUR MAY GO

If tonight's swims are cancelled and weather is fine Friday night, a total of four swimmers plan to be making attempts to be first across the Strait from the Canadian shore.

Janice White, Toronto, and Bill Muir, Saanich, hope to make their second and third attempts, respectively, on Friday night, along with Quinn and Rivette.

Victorian Bob Bowden, meanwhile, wants to make his second attempt either Saturday or Sunday night, depending on his navigator's advice and weather conditions at the weekend.

A North Carolinian from the town of Lumberton has written Victoria Chamber of Commerce for information on the Strait with a view to trying the swim.

He is Jimmy Woods, who said he has completed several 30-mile swims, but he did not specify whether they were fresh or salt water marathons.

Family Fails In Suit Against Younger Brother

Efforts of a father and four of his sons to get a share in a family estate failed in Supreme Court today.

Mr. Justice A. D. Macfarlane dismissed the civil suit of Robert Moffit, father, and sons, James Joseph, Francis, Arthur and Henry, who sought to have the will of Mrs. Moffit revoked. She bequeathed her $18,000 estate to her youngest son, Robert John.

The husband, and four sons, claimed Mrs. Moffit was of unsound mind at the time she made her will.

ASK THE TIMES

Q.—Does the word "barker" appear in any reputable English dictionary?—T.T.

A.—In the Oxford English dictionary barker is defined as "one who or that which barks; a dog" also as "one who cries wares at a cheap shop or show; now chiefly U.S." The appearance of the word in English is set at 1700. A slang use of the word to mean a pistol is dated back to 1815.

BETWEEN TIMES

By MONTE ROBERTS

The battle of the sexes is a continuing battle, which ceases not with age or marital status. As with us:

A very upset and unhappy mother-to-be-for-the-first-time unburdened her troubles to a friend.

"I'm so worried about my husband," she moaned. "He just REFUSES to go to pre-natal school."

"And why," asked the friend, "Are you so anxious he should attend pre-natal school?"

(I hope it isn't necessary to explain they now have these things for the male parent-to-be.)

"Because," explained the first-time-expectant mother, "I want him to be able to take care of the baby, too, and not leave it all to me."

The friend, an experienced hand at such matters, had a ready answer. "Follow this system," she said, "and you can't go wrong. Place the baby's crib close to HIS side of the bed. When baby wakes up, hungry, etc., it will open its sweet little rosy mouth ever so slightly, and it will make wailing sounds."

"Your husband will continue to sleep soundly, but you must also pretend to be asleep, and you must ignore the baby."

"Now comes the important part," she continued. "When the baby will become tired of inattention, and will open its sweet little rosy mouth about two feet and let out a bellow that will wake up even your husband."

"Your husband will sit bolt upright in bed, demanding to know whatever is the matter. Which is your cue to say drowsily, without lifting your head from the pillow 'would you feed and change the baby dear, I'm so sleepy and you're awake anyway.'"

"You see? He'll get all the training he needs that way."

So-o-o-o-o, the mother-to-be became a mother, and she and the baby came home from hospital, and mother put her friend's plan into operation.

And all went well, up to the point where she suggested hubby should get up and feed and change the baby.

"What?" he cried. "Chummy old me totch that dear little thing? I wouldn't think of it," he said, snuggling his head down in the pillow. "Why, I might break it."

Ah, yes, the battle of the sexes is a continuing battle, and sometimes the male wins. Sometimes.

No More Shiny Noses Now With Liquid Powder Base

PENNY SAVER

In spite of several applications of make-up or powder touch-ups, the inevitable will happen. Your nose becomes shiny. At least, that's the way things used to be. But a revolutionary new powder base is becoming increasingly popular with Victoria women. It's a clear liquid, which is something new. It won't change the color of your make-up, and is entirely invisible. When your powder wears off, the shine doesn't return, 'cause this liquid base seeps to that. The bottle is an interesting square shape, that will look well on your dressing table. It's black, with a perky cap. The jar costs $1.35.

Are your cumfiest slippers showing signs of age and wear? I know it's hard to dispose of them, 'cause they've become so much a part of your relaxing hours, but I know where you can buy some really comfortable ones at a very low price. They're the fur-trimmed moccasins that have been so popular for many years. You may buy either pink leather with white fur trim, or gray suede with grey fur. The colored beads work brightens them up, too. The price is right, too, just $2 a pair. You can take advantage of the sale and pick up some gifts, too.

Summertime is gardening time in most families. Every now and then the evening clatter will be shattered by the clattering sound of a lawn mower or the swishing of the sprinkler. If you relax by pampering your garden, you'll of course want the handiest tools and materials. Many nozzle attachments on garden hoses become leaky and the first thing you know you are all sprinkled and damp. There are new plastic nozzles in town that are guaranteed for a good fit and are a pleasant green color to harmonize with the lawn and garden. You can buy them for just 98 cents.

There's a whole new shipment of the glamorous lipstick and perfume holders in town. I've had my eye on them for some time, and was very impressed. When I saw the new ones, I was completely weakened, and fell right in love with them. They're pearl encrusted with insets of brilliant. Some of them have a solid mass of brilliant covering them, making them sparkle for evening. You can buy lighters, no larger than lipsticks, with the same coverings and allure. Lighters are $3.75; assorted lipstick holders, around the same price. They'd make thoughtful gifts for those bridesmaids and attendants, too.

Friends Warn Against Taking Boy Friend Back

By ELIZABETH HURLOCK, PhD

Public opinion can be a powerful force in a person's life. But should a person allow her whole future to be influenced by the opinions of others?

Hurlock

(Q)—"I am 23 years old and had been going steady with a fellow two years older than I for over a year. My folks and all my friends expected us to be married and so did I but my boy friend suddenly dropped me for another girl. He went with her for about six months, and then she dropped him for another man who had more money and could do more for her than my friend could."

"Now my boy friend has come back to me and wants to go steady again. I have always loved him and I would like to go with him, but my folks and my friends tell me I would be a fool to take him back as he would just drop me again for someone else. Should I listen to them and give up the man I love, or should I listen to my heart and let people talk?"

(A)—If your family and friends all feel that you would be a fool to take this young man back, they must have some reason. They doubtless know him well enough to know that he is behaving true to form and that he does not have the stability that would make a good husband.

Because you are in love with him you are not able to see his faults as others can. As a result, you have tried to convince yourself that this was just an incident in his life and that it will never happen again.

In general, it is never wise to allow one's self to be ruled by public opinion. However, there are times when the force of public opinion seems to be for the best. This would appear to be one of those times.

To be fair to yourself, why not accept this young man as a friend and give him another chance? Do not, however, limit yourself by going steady with him until you see how he behaves in the future. If, after a reasonable time, say a year from now, you have evidence that he is not turning his attentions elsewhere, then you can consider going steady with him. Don't, however, be too optimistic about the outcome and put all your eggs in one basket as you did before.

Need for More Women Ministers

MONTREAL (CP)—There is a definite place for women in the church ministry, says Rev. Nettie Wilson, assistant minister and director of Christian education at St. James United Church here.

The soft-spoken young woman is the first ordained woman minister to ascend the pulpit in conservative St. James.

Women ministers are still very much of a novelty, she admits, but she believes there is a need for them. "Women will often confide their problems to another woman when they couldn't bring themselves to go to a man."

Since her ordination five years ago, she has served parishes in northern Ontario. She says she never found any discrimination against her, nor did any of her parishioners attempt to go over her head on discovering that she would perform the full offices of a minister.

Miss Wilson is particularly interested in working with young people. As director of Christian education at St. James, she will be visiting university groups on campus, and the Canadian Girls in Training—a United Church group for young girls.

FORMER YWCA HEAD DIES

TORONTO (CP)—Constance Maud Mary Body, a former general secretary of the YWCA for Canada, died Wednesday at her home. She was 69.

She was the association's national secretary from 1927 to 1929.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

The Art of Dressing: Don't Overdress, Have Variety

I once wrote in this column, "It is better to be underdressed than overdressed." Through a mistake one paper printed it like this, "It is better to be underdressed than overdressed."

I wouldn't go that far but I would always rather be in simple, attractive clothes, even when everyone else has on evening clothes, than to be the one in evening clothes when others are casually gowned.

I would also always rather take a chance on too little jewelry rather than too much; on basic styles rather than an extreme one unless I am sure that it is flattering; on too little make-up rather than too much.

To be appropriately dressed is an art. High heels on the golf course or oxfords with the formal are equally unattractive. A letter before me says, "It would be greatly appreciated by me and many others, I am sure, if you would insert a few words in an article about office attire. While attending school I was taught that suits are most appropriate for secretaries to wear, however with cotton clothes becoming more and more popular, I am beginning to wonder if that belief is just a little bit outdated."

Suits in the office are always appropriate and smart. However, I think the idea really is that fussy clothes are not appropriate. Simple or tailored dresses are just as good and there are so many lovely cottons in these styles.

Good grooming and attractive garb are essentials to success in the business world. Bangles, ruffles and low cut attire are for other occasions. One reason a suit is such a good investment for the woman in business is because it is so adaptable. You can give yourself variety and make a suit look different by wearing different blouses and scarves and accessories with it. Most career women have to watch the clothes budget and therefore an outfit which can be worn over and over again without boring you or your associates, is a valuable one to have. If you would like to have my leaflet No. 54 "Planning Clothes to Suit Figure and Personality," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Shredded sharp cheese folded into mayonnaise makes a good dressing for a summer fruit salad made of plump cooked prunes, chunks of honeydew melon, orange slices and banana chunks.

Two cups of cooked large dry limas mixed with 1/4 cup each coarsely grated carrot, chopped green pepper, chopped cabbage and thinly sliced radishes, dressed with a blend of half mayonnaise and half French dressing makes a tasty salad for any outdoor meal.

Sunback dresses may give your audience a rude shock if your back isn't properly washed. Get a combination of mirrors or a husband to check on this important matter.

Next time you're cooking up a batch of large dry limas use a can of condensed onion soup as part of the cooking liquid. It gives a wonderful flavor to the beans whether they be served plain or in salads or casseroles.

World YWCA in England in September

TORONTO (CP)—Canada's largest delegation in the history of such meetings is going to the world council meeting of the world YWCA in England, being held Sept. 1-16 at Englefield Green, near Windsor.

Forty-four persons will represent Canada. The council meets every four years with delegates from 60 nations. Mrs. Ryrie Smith of Toronto, president of the Canadian YWCA, heads the delegation. So far no iron curtain countries have indicated they will send delegates. Jean Campbell of Toronto, assistant executive director of the Canadian YWCA, said however officials hope some Chinese delegates will appear. She said China has a large YWCA organization. The YWCA's mutual service plan—a little Colombo plan on which the YWCA has been operating for 50 years—would be one of the main discussion themes, said Miss Campbell. Of the Canadian party only six are official council delegates. The others will sit in on open sessions. Among them are a group of 14 who will attend as a wind-up of their tour of France, Switzerland, Germany, Holland and Scotland. Preliminary consultation sessions in England were attended by Mrs. Smith and Miss Agnes Roy of Toronto, executive director of the Canadian Y.

Hot buttered apricot whole fruit nectar punch, frosted raisin yeast bread, and some walnut chocolate fudge will go over big with the teen-agers for after-skating refreshments.

Johnson-Logan Vows Solemnized Recently

Miss Marietta Helen Logan, gowned in a traditional white lace and net over satin bridal gown, entered Central Baptist Church on the arm of her father for her wedding to Robert William Johnson last Saturday evening.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Logan, 855 Craigflower Road, and her groom, son of Mrs. J. H. Hocking, River Road, Lulu Island, B.C., were united in a ceremony performed by Rev. T. L. Westcott in a setting of white and pink gladioli and daisies and bluebells in tall baskets. E. Galliford, organist, played traditional wedding music, and Mrs. H. Sherratt sang "O Perfect Love."

The bridal gown was fashioned with a high neckline of lace and three-quarter length sleeves and was worn with net mitts, and a fingertip veil of illusion net, with opalescent sequins caught to a dainty Juliet cap. The bouquet was of red roses and white carnations.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Fay Gavin, who chose a ballerina length gown of yellow tulle with matching headpiece of yellow net and carried a bouquet of Kokomo carnations.

Best man was the bride's brother, Charles William Logan, while ushers were Barry Vollet and Walter Shumanski.

A lace cloth, crocheted by the bride's mother, covered the bride's table at a reception in the home of the bride's parents.

A three-tier cake was flanked by pink rosebuds and white candles. Rooms were decorated with pink and white streamers and bells and a profusion of summer blooms. R. Troup proposed the traditional toast to the bride.

For traveling the bride donned a dusty rose suit with matching topcoat, complemented with navy accessories. Her corsage was of white roses.

Following their honeymoon in Vancouver, the newlyweds will make their home in Victoria.

"There is No Substitute for Quality"

Mrs. Arthur McCutchan, left, of Brisbane, Australia, is visiting Mrs. Ross Sturgeon, 3916 Shelbourne Street, with whom she has corresponded since they were small girls.

Pen Pals for 17 Years

By ELIZABETH FORBES

"We've talked of meeting each other in our letters. We've dreamed of it... but we never thought it would ever happen." Mrs. Sturgeon tells you excitedly, as she introduces her pen pal, Mrs. Arthur McCutchan, a visitor from Australia.

Mrs. McCutchan adds in just as excited a voice, "A year ago I would have said this simply could not happen... but here I am... and we're actually together."

The two happy young women have been pen pals since their early school days. It started when Mrs. Sturgeon—then Miss Marjorie Boorman of this city—wrote a letter to the Brisbane post office, asking for a pen pal... "any girl 12 years old or over."

The letter was forwarded to a primary girls' school and the headmistress delegated Mrs. McCutchan—then Miss Betty Lamont—to answer it.

"That's how it began," the two young women chorus in excited voices, "and we've been friends ever since."

In their letters they have shared many confidences, including their girlhood dreams, their first boy friends, their engagements, marriages and their babies. Mrs. Sturgeon has three boys and Mrs. McCutchan's family numbers two boys.

Opportunity to visit Victoria came to Mrs. McCutchan through the fact that her husband, an irrigation engineer, was sent to the United States about a year ago on a Commonwealth fellowship.

He has been working on reclamation projects near Denver, at Boise and in southern California.

STRIP TEASE THREATENED TO WIN WAGE DEMANDS

NEW DELHI, India (UP)—Six thousand grade 3 employees of Indian government offices announced today they would stop shaving Aug. 16 to force the government to raise their wages.

It this doesn't work, they said, they would begin coming to work Aug. 22 wearing only their shoes, underwear and trousers.

They'll carry the progressive strip tease a bit further Aug. 30 and stop wearing shoes and trousers, showing up at work only in their underwear.

If nothing happens by Sept. 20, they said, they will begin wearing loin cloths until their grievances are redressed.

Drew Credits Press With Curb on Howe

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian newspapers were mainly responsible for the government agreeing to put a time limit of three years on the wide powers of the Defence Production Act, Hon. George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, said Wednesday.

"I regard the whole event as demonstrating the power of a free press," he said on his return from a holiday in the Georgian bay area.

The government agreed to the time limit July 11 after a 10-day filibuster in the Commons by the official opposition. The government originally wanted the powers extended indefinitely.

Soldier Runs Amok

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (CP)—A Rhodesian soldier ran amok on a train between Kuala Lumpur and Singapore today with a sub-machine gun, killing three persons and injuring 10. Then he shot himself fatally. The train screamed to a halt at Sungai Besi, where military ambulances rushed the injured to a British military hospital.

BEATS CHARLES

Princess Catches First Fish

STRANRAER, Scotland (Reuters)—Princess Charles and Princess Anne turned anglers Wednesday and the five-year-old princess caught a tiny perch.

As she squealed excitedly, her brother, aged six, kept fishing. But he had no luck.

The royal children are on their way with their parents to their Scottish home in Balmoral. They are sailing round the west coast of Britain in the royal yacht Britannia.

While the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh fulfilled public engagements in the area, the children were brought ashore and taken to the castle home of the Earl and Countess of Stair. The earl's daughter, Lady Jean Rankin, revealed details of the fishing trip Wednesday night after the Britannia had sailed away from here.

"Princess Anne was thrilled and shouted excitedly when she caught a small perch," Lady Rankin said. She also reported that Anne rode a bicycle for the first time Wednesday. "She saw her brother riding one and thought she would like to try."

TOMB MAY TELL STORY

Marlowe Writer Of Bard's Work?

CHICHESTER, England (Reuters)—New York drama historian Calvin Hoffman yesterday announced he has cleared the final hurdle in his campaign to open a 300-year-old tomb here and obtain documentary evidence that Shakespeare was "a fraud."

Hoffman, who believes Christopher Marlowe wrote all the plays attributed to Shakespeare, obtained permission to open the tomb from the local parochial church council Tuesday night.

"I hope within the next two weeks to pay a stonemason $1,000 to unseal the tomb," he said. In it, Hoffman expects to find a lead box containing manuscripts of between 20 and 36 plays attributed to Shakespeare but really in Marlowe's writing.

For 20 years Hoffman has argued that Marlowe, wanted for heresy and treason, faked his own death in 1593 and fled to Spain to avoid burning at the stake. Hoffman says Marlowe sent his plays to his benefactor, Sir Thomas Walsingham.

The nobleman in turn paid "a stooge, third-rate actor and fraud" named William Shakespeare to publish the plays under his own name, Hoffman claims. Walsingham is buried in St.

IN JUNE VOTE

Alberta Soared Down 10%

EDMONTON (CP)—The Social Credit vote in the June 29 Alberta general election dropped almost 10 per cent from 1952. That of the Liberal party jumped nine per cent.

Ray Crevelin, chief electoral officer, said 378,134 valid votes were cast. The Social Credit party, returned to office for the sixth successive time since 1935, obtained 176,546 votes—46.4 per cent. The Liberals got 117,531—31.1 per cent.

In announcing the official figures, Mr. Crevelin said 22,914 ballots were rejected. The total vote was 298,335.

The Social Credit party under Premier E. C. Manning won 37 seats in the election which followed one of the most bitter campaigns in Alberta history. This was a drop of 15 from the 52 the party won in 1952. Three cabinet ministers were among the casualties.

Mr. Crevelin reported that the Progressive Conservatives polled 34,737 votes, 8.8 per cent. This compared with 10,971—two per cent—in 1952.

Recorded Bets In Chinese, Still Fined $150

VANCOUVER (CP)—Ernie Chow's flamboyant argyles landed him in trouble Wednesday.

The 30-year-old Chinese was fined $150 or two months when he pleaded guilty to book-making.

Police said Chow wrote about 23 bets worth $200 on the backs of worthless mutual tickets and slipped them into his socks.

In an attempt to make his method police-proof, he recorded the bets in Chinese.

Fun at Fair

STRANRAER, Scotland (AP)—A prize heifer stamped past the royal box and two persons fell through the pavilion roof when the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh visited the Stranraer agricultural show Wednesday. The royal couple smiled through all the excitement.

60-Man Jury Panel Slated For Nanaimo Fall Assizes

NANAIMO, B.C. (CP)—A 60-man jury panel will be drawn Aug. 22 from a jury list of 150 names, in preparation for the fall assizes which convene here Sept. 6, Sheriff Frank Hodson has announced.

This represents an increase of 12 over the 48-man panel drawn in the past. The sheriff noted that a larger proportion of women than ever before accepted the placing of their name on the jury list.

The practice is to give women the option of refusing jury service and a form is provided which can be detached from the notice sent them when their names are on the list which they may sign and return if they do not wish to serve.

Only case down on the assize list so far is one originating in Ladysmith, in which Edward Charles Wilson and Ralph Prentice face three charges of breaking and entering.

Saturna Favors Mainland Link

SATURNIA ISLAND — Residents here in a recent opinion poll favored by 74 per cent a ferry link with the mainland, while 51 per cent were in favor of a government-subsidized service to Vancouver Island.

The poll was conducted by the Saturnia Community Club. When faced by ballot with an outright decision on which ferry service should be favored, only 35 per cent voted for V.I. compared with 60 per cent endorsing the mainland link.

Saturna, with other Gulf Islands, has been faced with a transportation problem, and active steps to solve this are now under way.

'DICTATORS'

Zoning Zeal Irks Langford

Langford Wednesday night loosened its girdle, let down its hair and went on an oratorical bender at a zoning meeting at the Community Hall attended by nearly 200 residents.

Most of the residents hadn't even been invited to the meeting, but this didn't discourage them.

It all started when a proposal was made to create a zoned area of property abutting on the stretch of the Trans-Canada Highway between Thetis Lake and Millstream Road, and a short distance down Millstream Road itself.

But none of this property is actually in Langford.

30 AFFECTED

Thirty property owners affected were invited to the meeting to discover their views on the proposal. The rest of the crowd were gate-crashers.

The meeting was chaired by J. S. Williams and addressed by J. H. Doughty-Davis, regional planning director for the municipal affairs department.

However, R. B. H. Sewell, a genuine Langford resident, circulated the district saying, in effect, the town planners were dictators and the whole proposal a scheme to include Langford in the zoned areas.

Mr. Sewell, a former secretary of the Langford Ratepayers' Association, addressed the meeting at length and with heat.

FIFTH TIME

"It's the fifth time the planning division has attempted to add Langford to its zoned areas," he charged. "If it comes into effect you are completely at the mercy of a band of dreamers, lost control of your property."

He said the Town Planning Act would make a dictator happy.

By this time the original purpose of the meeting had been lost in the muddle.

Another Langford resident, Mrs. Hazel Baynes, suggested if the district incorporated as a municipality its denizens would be able to draw their own regulations through elected representatives.

TWO FAVOR

When the chairman called for comment by the property owners actually affected by the zoning proposal, only three spoke up. Roughly, two favored planning, one was against.

Alfred H. Phelps, largest

NO PLACE LIKE HOME

NANAIMO — Oliver Pipe had a "home away from home," here, and it cost him money.

He was fined $50 in police court Wednesday for consuming a bottle of beer in a cafe.

Said Mr. Pipe: "I forgot where I was and thought I was in my own home."

property owner concerned, said the zoning proposal had nothing to do with Langford—that if Langford folk wanted to live like Indians, they could do so as far as he was concerned.

This brought him nothing but a shower of verbal fire-arrows, a few of which glanced off and impinged upon the planning director and the chairman.

Mr. Doughty-Davis vainly tried to explain that nothing had been done yet, and the zoning proposal would not be implemented without the consent of the owners affected.

Finally, most of those attending the meeting signed in gay abandon a petition asking that the Town Planning Act be amended to provide for notice to property owners—and a secret ballot—before an area is zoned.

Pretty well lost in the shuffle was the zoning area question on which the meeting was called.

But Mr. Doughty-Davis promised to re-draw the map and try to get in touch with everyone directly concerned and start all over again.

TODAY'S MARKET SUMMARIES

Spurt Near Close Sends Toronto Up

TORONTO (CP)—Share values, ahead all day, put on an extra spurt in closing stock market transactions today to set the market firmly on higher ground. Papers, manufacturers, financial institutions, utilities and foods strengthened an improved industrial group.

Uranium swung upward again after moving ahead then hesitating. Other mining groups and western oils also consolidated ground gains in earlier trading.

Hudson Bay jumped 2½ to lead base metals up. International Nickel gained ¼.

In western oils, Canadian Atlantic was 30 better at $6.05. Other best gainers were Central Explorations, Midcon, Okalta, Triad and Security.

Gold moved within a narrow range.

NEW YORK

NEW YORK (AP)—Prices improved in the stock market today, with a scattering of advances running to better than two points.

The rally was selective and leadership changed frequently. The best acting shares included aircrafts, steels, coppers and some rails, oils and chemicals.

Advancing Canadian stocks included Hiram Walker, up 2½, International Nickel, ¼, Canadian Pacific, ½, and Dome Mines, ½. Distillers Seagram was unchanged.

On the American stock exchange, Royalite Oil gained ½. Lake Shore and Giant Yellowknife were unchanged.

LONDON

LONDON (Reuters)—The markets forged ahead today with widespread gains in industrials.

Gilt-edged stocks were dull despite the unchanged bank rate and the early closing of the electricity loan list. Dollar stocks were firm.

Coppers opened strong but best prices were not maintained. Oils fluctuated and declined from their peak.

Stock closings: Babcock & Wilcox 9½, Boverie Paper Corp. 2½, Canadian Pacific 59½, Central Mining 4½, Courtauld 4½, Imperial Chemical 5½, Metal Box 3½.

Amateur Uranium Hunters Not Having Much Success

GENEVA (CP)—A Canadian geologist told the international conference on peaceful uses of atomic energy that amateur prospectors haven't had much luck in finding uranium deposits in Canada.

A. H. Lang, acting chief of the mineral deposits division of the geological survey of Canada, said the important discoveries have been made by organized teams of geologists and trained prospectors or by competent independent prospectors.

However, Dr. Lang said the possibility of important ore bodies being found by amateurs is not ruled out. There always was a chance an amateur might find an important deposit.

Dr. Lang's paper was designed to explain to scientists at the historic meeting the technical aspects of uranium prospecting in Canada by ground and aerial surveys.

"More people are searching for uranium in Canada today than for any other metal and uranium mining is assuming a major place in the country's mineral industry," he said.

During the last four years more than 1,000 occurrences of radioactive minerals, mainly pitchblende, have been discovered. However, only a few were of sufficient uranium content to permit mining them at an economic cost.

Dr. Lang said most of the uranium deposits being mined in Canada are of the pitchblende variety or uranium-bearing conglomerates. The bulk of other types of deposits did not appear to be suitable for mining.

Majority of known occurrences and all present producers and assured future producers were in the Canadian shield, a geological region which includes about half the country.

He said the only direct government financial assistance for prospecting consists of limited schemes provided by British Columbia and Saskatchewan.

Most of the Canadian discoveries were made with the aid of geiger or scintillation counters, instruments capable of recording radioactivity. However, other geophysical and geochemical methods probably would be used in future.

Valley Gas Gets Backing From N.Y.

CHILLIWACK (CP)—Officials of Valley Natural Gas Distributors Ltd., said today that Haupt & Co. of New York has agreed to purchase 80 per cent of the securities of the B.C. firm and will provide up to $15,000,000 if necessary.

The money would provide financing for a system to distribute natural gas in the Fraser Valley. The agreement follows lengthy negotiations.

In a statement, officials said estimates indicate cost of the distribution system will run "between $8,000,000 and $10,000,000."

U.S.A., Britain Jostle for Top Place in World's Atom Market

BY ROBERT MUSEL, UP Staff Correspondent

GENEVA (UP)—This is a city divided with scientists promoting atoms for peace at one end and big business girding for battle at the other.

The stakes are high at both ends. For the scientists there is fame, possibly some fortune and a chance to further advance the art of nuclear physics. For the industrialists of many lands the prize is the richest market in history—the golden harvest of the atomic age.

For days, the industrialists have been fighting a war of position with the usual propaganda charges.

"Subsidy exclaimers" hissed the British when the United States announced it would sell uranium and heavy water at prices somewhat below cost.

Heavy water, for example—used to slow down atomic reaction—will be sold by the United States at $28 a pound against the $50 British pays New Zealand for the stuff.

The British theme, very unofficial, is that by selling these nuclear bargains the U.S. hopes to create such good will that nations and industries which need atomic products will gratefully turn to America for them.

The business battle has passed the initial contacts stage and the social phase of the seller-buyer relationship is about to mark the prelude to some real salesmanship.

There are cocktail parties and some informal gatherings. Limousines move through streets with executives in earnest conversation. Conferences go on in smoke-filled rooms and just as often at sidewalk cafes. At least two steamer cruises are scheduled.

So far the rivalry has been strictly Anglo-American. France's entry into the field would complicate it.

Whatever the markets will be, Romania, Bulgaria, Poland, Albania, Czechoslovakia and Red China will not be among them.

Soviet Russia, according to British sources, already has convinced its satellites that in atomic matters they should "buy Russian." It will also supply the essential uranium to all its customers.

How's business at the fair so far?

No reactors have been sold yet, although there have been many inquiries. Buying a reactor is complicated. Money is needed from $200,000 to $450,000, and so is uranium—which is impossible to get for power purposes while military demands are so high.

There has been some trade in isotopic equipment and nuclear instruments, but nothing sensational.

General Dynamics Corp. said persons interested in atomic marine propulsion had come to examine its model of the atomic submarine Nautilus and to inquire about the availability of such power for merchant ship.

Generally speaking, however, the industrialists feel prospective purchasers must know where the uranium is coming from before they will buy. And no one can tell them yet.

Alberta Oil Companies Send Crew To Sink Well in Fraser Valley

ABBOTSFORD (CP)—An oil drilling rig has been moved on to the property of J. Henderson near this Fraser Valley centre and officials said they are confident of producing oil or natural gas, or both.

A representative of Kris Petroleum, working in conjunction with Heccon Petroleum Ltd., of Edmonton, said drillers should be sinking the well by the end of the week.

Kris Petroleum, headed by Raymond Shaw of Calgary, has leased 58,000 acres on the Canadian side of the international border and 13,000 acres on the American side.

Earlier this year, the company sank a well on American property and plans to complete drilling there if drilling on the Canadian side is successful.

Most of the property under lease is Crown land.

Connie Due to Hit at 7 P.M.

TIRE CREW OF Navy Neptune leaves plane at Jacksonville, Fla. air base after reconnaissance flight into eye of hurricane "Connie" which Miami weather bureau said will hit U.S. coast near Wilmington Del. about 7 p.m. (PDT) if present course of storm is maintained.

LAST YEAR'S PATTERN followed by hurricanes Carol, Edna and Hazel shows how they were deflected over land by high pressure area off Newfoundland, despite prevailing off-shore westerlies. Weather bureau notes today that hurricane Diane is gathering force about 200 miles south of Connie.

ROUND-CLOCK WATCH

Canada All Ready If Hurricane Hits

By British United Press

Federal civil defence officials began a round-the-clock watch on hurricane Connie today while eastern Canada prepared for its possible onslaught.

Maj.-Gen. Frank F. Worthington, federal civil defence co-ordinator, said the hurricane's course was being plotted by CD operations teams in co-operation with the federal weather bureau and U.S. civil defence authorities. He ordered his aides to immediately relay up-to-the-minute reports to threatened areas.

Worthington said Canada was better prepared now to cope with the hurricane or other major disasters than it was during hurricane Hazel which killed more than 70 persons and caused $24,643,000 damage in Canada last fall.

"Many Canadian communities today are much more hurricane-conscious than they were," he said.

Connie was not expected to become a major threat to eastern Canada, if at all, until Friday.

Hopes Abandoned For Downed Fliers

CHURCHILL, Man. (CP)—Hopes that two men survived the crash of their civilian plane 25 miles northeast of Churchill were today as "RCAF" official reported that the port wing of the plane had been found in waters off Hudson Bay.

Pilots of the wheel-equipped Mosquito, owned by Spartan Airways of Toronto, was Leonard Cook of Ottawa, Spartan's chief pilot. He was accompanied by a junior pilot, Richard Pattison.

day at the earliest. But farmers, fishermen and sailors in the Maritimes kept close tabs on its path and took no chances. Maritimers hoped that their rugged coastlines would protect them. In Toronto, city and provincial government officials said they were prepared should the big blow barrel inland.

For Maritime farmers, it was a case of wait and see. But a severe storm could prove very costly. It was estimated that Nova Scotia's apple crop was double that of last fall when hurricane Edna tore the ripened fruit from the trees, causing millions of dollars in damage. The crop is estimated at more than 4,000,000 bushels and a market for at least half of it must be found outside Canada.

A severe storm could interfere with two major events scheduled in the Maritimes this week-end. One is the official opening of the Canso causeway, linking Cape Breton with the Nova Scotia mainland, on Saturday. The other is "Exercise Rising Star," a division-sized mock war being staged at Camp Gagetown, N.S., by the army.

In Montreal, officials of Hydro-Quebec, which supplies electricity and gas to several hundred thousand homes, and spokesmen for police, firemen and the Red Cross said emergency programs could be put into effect within minutes.

Fred Gardiner, chairman of Toronto's metropolitan council, said the city which failed to organize a warning system before hurricane Hazel struck was ready for Connie.

Most of the Atlantic fleet's warships were expected to stay in Halifax, N.S. It is a protected port and other shipping in the area likely would head there for shelter if necessary.

SINCLAIR INJURED DURING SOVIET TOUR

MOSCOW (Reuters)—James Sinclair, Canadian fisheries minister, was injured in a fall while visiting a Russian drydock at Kamchatka, the Canadian embassy said today.

The statement from the embassy said Sinclair was injured at Petropavlovsk, a Kamchatka fishing centre normally barred to foreign visitors, but his "condition is not regarded as serious."

The embassy said the minister was under medical care and was expected to resume his tour of Russian Pacific fishing areas within two weeks.

The embassy said Sinclair's executive assistant, Alistair Fraser, also was involved in the accident but already has been discharged from hospital. Further details were not immediately available.

BCPC Seeks Island Power On Mainland

Rugged Homathko-Chilko Area Studied By Public Power Body

By TOM GOULD
The British Columbia Power Commission is now looking to the mainland coast for sources of hydro-electric power for future industry on Vancouver Island.

SOVIET SELLS WHEAT TO U.K. AT 21c LESS

WINNIPEG (CP)—Cable reports today on the Winnipeg grain exchange said Russia had sold a cargo of wheat on a sample basis to the United Kingdom at a price 21 cents below the asking price for Canadian milling grades. It was not known how the Russian wheat involved graded with Canadian wheat.

NEED MORE

The commission feels that when the newly-authorized Upper Campbell-Battle Lake project is completed the last major source of hydro power on the island will have been developed and it must be prepared between 1958 and 1960 to find another source of power to meet the demand.

Power developed in the Homathko-Chilko area, which is about 65 miles northeast of Campbell River across the Gulf of Georgia, would have to be fed across the gulf by island-hopping lines. The B.C. Electric will bring power across by submarine cable for the Victoria area which it serves.

The Homathko-Chilko area has a possible potential of over 1,000,000 horsepower and was once looked at by Aluminum Company of Canada for its huge aluminum development. However, part of this could be developed on the Homathko River for the power commission purposes.

Cost of the project would be many millions of dollars.

FOUR SITES

Four huge power sites are available on the Homathko River. At Shelter Canyon, a dam 300 feet high and about 180 feet long would develop 126,300 horsepower.

Nude Canyon, with a 300-foot dam and 650 foot crest, utilizing a powerhouse at Low Lake, would provide a combined head of 930 feet, which would develop 397,400 horsepower.

From this one site alone, an amount of power equal to that which will be available to the commission from John Hart, Ladore Falls, Upper Campbell

GRANDVAL WARNS FRANCE

Morocco Home-Rule—Or More Bloodshed

PARIS (UP)—Resident-General Gilbert Grandval of Morocco today urged France to pledge sweeping reforms for the North African protectorate to avert violence and end the gravest crisis faced by the French since the Indo-China war.

Grandval made his recommendation at the opening session of a crucial meeting of the North African co-ordinating committee, according to well-informed sources.

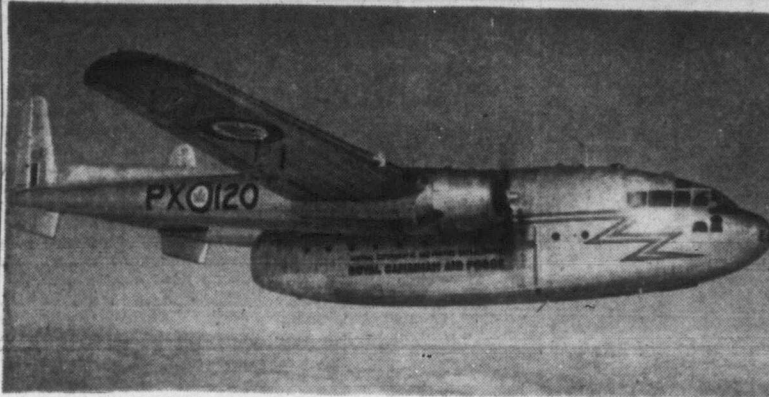

The informants said Grandval called on the government to make a solemn pledge of more home-rule for the protectorate before Aug. 20. The date marks the second anniversary of the ouster of pro-Nationalist sultan Mohammed Ben Ousef.

Moroccan Nationalists have called for public demonstrations and there are real fears that they may touch off new violence.

Premier Edgar Faure called the meeting to examine Grandval's reform plans and heal a breach in the ranks of his majority which threatens his government.

Fiery Midair Crash Kills 66 Soldiers

"FLYING BOXCAR" ... of type which carried 66 men to death.

No Survivors In Giant U.S. Planes

STUTTGART, Germany (AP)—Sixty-six U.S. soldiers and airmen were killed today when two air force transports tangled in the air and plunged flaming into the Black Forest.

It was Europe's worst post-war air disaster and the fourth highest in aviation history.

Nine giant C-119 Flying Boxcar transports loaded with U.S. Seventh Army troops took off on an afternoon air transport exercise from Echterdingen airfield, near Stuttgart.

Within 15 minutes, two of the planes were charred wrecks. One crashed into the forest and the other into a clearing 30 miles west of Stuttgart.

Villagers said there was a "massive explosion" and both planes burst into flames as they crashed. There were reports that the explosion was heard 30 miles away.

DRIVEN OFF BY FLAMES

German police and volunteer rescuers rushed to the scene but the fierce flames drove them off.

A police official in the disaster area said: "A blaze of flame and a cloud of coal-black smoke gushed from the wood immediately after the crash. Police, firemen, foresters—everybody available—rushed to the spot, on foot, on bicycles and in cars."

One plane carried a crew of five and 41 soldiers. The second carried four crew men and 14 soldiers. Each carried a loadmaster, an air force non-commissioned officer responsible for loading troops into and out of the transports.

ENGINE TROUBLE

The air force said that one plane developed engine trouble at 4,000 feet shortly after the take-off. It lost altitude momentarily and then suddenly veered across the nose of another plane in the formation.

The crippled plane went down immediately. The second Boxcar flew level for almost a minute, then plunged to the ground.

The announced death toll would make this the fourth worst air disaster in history. A total of 129 U.S. servicemen died in the wreckage of a C-124 Globemaster near Tokyo in 1953. In 1952 another C-124 crashed on taking off from Larson air force base, in Washington state, killing 87. In 1950, a commercial plane carrying soccer fans crashed at Cardiff, Wales, with a death toll of 80 persons.

Whaley, McIntyre Lead Golf Semis

Ralph Whaley, Seattle, medalist and eight-time tournament champion and B.C. senior champion Pete McIntyre of Trail were 2-up leaders after 10 holes in today's 18-hole semifinals of the 33rd annual Seniors' Northwest Golf Association tournament at Victoria Golf Club.

Whaley was 2 up over H. W. Andrews, Tacoma, while McIntyre held the same margin over Ed Eisenhower, Tacoma.

ANTI-WAR PACT WITH SOVIETS GERMAN PLAN?

BONN (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer may offer the Soviet Union a non-aggression pact during his forthcoming visit to Moscow, acting chancellor Franz Bluecher said today.

Bluecher told a press conference: "There is nothing in the Brussels and London pacts of last year that would prevent West Germany offering assurances to any country that it will not attack."

"The new German wehrmacht (army) will be created solely for defensive purposes."

Probe Resumes Into Death of Boys on Peak

BANFF, Alta. (CP)—Inquest into the death of seven young American boys in an avalanche on towering Mount Temple resumes today after a recess of almost a month.

The boys, between the ages of 12 and 16, were swept nearly 1,400 feet to their deaths July 11 when a mass of wet, unstable snow broke loose and crashed down the steep slope. They were among a party of 11 that almost succeeded in conquering the 11,636-foot mountain.

A one-day hearing was held July 13. Survivors of the avalanche and the expedition's two leaders testified before returning to their homes.

Provincial coroner M. M. Cantor will preside at today's hearing.

The first hearing was told there was no "apparent" danger in allowing the boys to attempt the difficult climb. They said they had not been warned of avalanche conditions existed.

Foreign Ministers At Geneva Oct. 27

Conference Regarded As 'Acid Test' Of Soviet Desire for World Peace

WASHINGTON (UP)—Foreign ministers of the United States, Britain, France, and Russia will meet in Geneva on Oct. 27, in a further effort to find a basis for world peace.

The four governments issued identical announcements today of the date for the foreign ministers meeting. The conference was ordered by the recent heads-of-government Geneva "summit" conference.

The foreign ministers meeting is regarded as the "acid test" of whether the Russians actually are willing to put their sweet talk into writing.

A brief U.S. announcement said: "Following consultations through diplomatic channels, the governments of France, the United Kingdom, the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics and the United States have agreed that the meeting of the foreign ministers of the four powers, envisaged in the directive issued by the heads of government on July 23, will convene at Geneva on Thursday, Oct. 27, 1955."

"They are also agreed that the conference of foreign ministers will be served by a joint secretariat of the four powers."

The three Western foreign ministers may meet in New York next month to discuss the Western position at the Geneva meeting. U.S. officials said it would be normal for the three to talk privately if all attend the opening session of the United Nations General Assembly, Sept. 20, in New York.

U.S. BELL X-2 WILL PACK POWER OF NAVY CRUISER

Plane to Travel 2,250 MPH, 100,000 Feet Up

WASHINGTON (UP)—The air force will begin test flights this year with a stainless steel rocket plane designed to reach a speed of about 2,250 miles per hour at altitudes of 100,000 feet.

The air force announced the forthcoming flights of the Bell X-2 will take place at Edwards Air Force base, Cal. Details of the plane's expected performance were obtained from responsible sources.

The X-2 is designed to investigate the so-called "thermal barrier." This refers to the enormous heat generated on the skin of a high speed air plane by air friction.

At a speed of about 2,000 miles an hour the temperature rises to 600 degrees and would dangerously weaken the normal aluminum alloys now used in aircraft construction. Consequently, the X-2 was designed with a high content of stainless steel which does not weaken until temperatures of about 1,600 degrees are reached. Friction would cause such a temperature at about 3,300 miles per hour.

The X-2 is a descendant of the famous X-1, the first

Bennett Theorem: When y' save a dollar by not buyin' A, then when y' buy B y' git it fer nothin'. (This is also known as the Kelowna Court House Capex.)

If the new American plane goes so fast y' git back before y' start, what's the use of goin'?

plane ever to exceed the speed of sound, and the X-1A which holds the present world speed record of 1,650 miles an hour and also has been flown to a record height of 90,000 feet.

The air force refused to disclose the power of the Curtiss-Wright rocket engine which will hurl the X-2 through the stratosphere. But it said its power could be compared to that of a modern navy cruiser which is about 120,000 horsepower. That indicated to observers that the rocket motor probably will develop a thrust of 15,000 to 18,000 pounds which, at the expected speed of 2,250 miles per hour, would translate roughly into the cruiser's horsepower.

The air force said that the X-2 will reach "heights and speeds never before realized."

Special precautions for pilot safety include a cockpit enclosed in a capsule which can be separated from the rest of the plane and let down by parachute. At a safe altitude the pilot would be ejected and then continue his descent with his own parachute.

Planes Collide in Germany

STUTTGART, Germany (AP)—Sixty-six U.S. soldiers and airmen were killed today when two air force transports tangled in the air and plunged flaming into the Black Forest.

It was Europe's worst post-war air disaster and the fourth highest in aviation history.

Nine giant C-119 Flying Boxcar transports loaded with U.S. Seventh Army troops took off on an afternoon air transport exercise from Echterdingen airfield, near Stuttgart.

Within 15 minutes, two of the planes were charred wrecks. One crashed into the forest and the other into a clearing 30 miles west of Stuttgart.

Villagers said there was a "massive explosion" and both planes burst into flames as they crashed. There were reports that the explosion was heard 50 miles away.

Connie Due to Hit at 7 P.M.

TIRED CREW of Navy Neptune leaves plane at Jacksonville, Fla. air base after reconnaissance flight into eye of hurricane "Connie" which Miami weather bureau said will hit U.S. coast near Wilmington Del. about 7 p.m. (PDT) if present course of storm is maintained.

ROUND-CLOCK WATCH

Canada All Ready
If Hurricane Hits

By British United Press
Federal civil defence officials began a round-the-clock watch on hurricane Connie today while eastern Canada prepared for its possible onslaught.

Maj.-Gen. Frank F. Worthington, federal civil defence coordinator, said the hurricane's course was being plotted by CD operations teams in co-operation with the federal weather bureau and U.S. civil defence authorities. He ordered his aides to immediately relay up-to-the-minute reports to threatened areas.

Worthington said Canada was better prepared now to cope with the hurricane or other major disasters than it was during hurricane Hazel which killed more than 70 persons and caused $24,643,000 damage in Canada last fall.

"Many Canadian communities today are much more hurricane-conscious than they were," he said.

Connie was not expected to become a major threat to eastern Canada, if at all, until Friday at the earliest. But farmers, fishermen and sailors in the Maritimes kept close tabs on its path and took no chances.

Maritimers hoped that their rugged coastlines would protect them. In Toronto, city and provincial government officials said they were prepared should the big blow barrel inland.

For Maritime farmers, it was a case of wait and see. But a severe storm could prove very costly. It was estimated that Nova Scotia's apple crop was double that of last fall when hurricane Edna tore the ripened fruit from the trees, causing millions of dollars in damage. The crop is estimated at more than 4,000,000 bushels and a market for at least half of it must be found outside Canada.

Homathko River District
Studied By BCPC to Meet
Future Need of Industry

By TOM GOULD
The British Columbia Power Commission is now looking to the mainland coast for sources of hydro-electric power for future industry on Vancouver Island.

It was disclosed today the commission's surveyors have completed preliminary checks on the Homathko River, at the head of Bute Inlet, as a possible source of power for the island in its long-range planning.

The commission feels that when the newly authorized Upper Campbell-Buttle Lake project is completed the last major source of hydro power on the island will have been developed and it must be prepared between 1958 and 1960 to find another source of power to meet the demand.

Power developed in the Homathko-Chilko area, which is about 65 miles northeast of Campbell River across the Gulf of Georgia, would have to be fed across the gulf by island-hopping lines. The B.C. Electric will bring power across by submarine cable for the Victoria area which it serves.

The Homathko-Chilko area has a possible potential of over 1,000,000 horsepower and was once looked at by Aluminum Company of Canada for its huge aluminum development. However, part of this could be developed on the Homathko River for the power commission purposes.

Cost of the project would be many millions of dollars.

FOUR SITES
Four huge power sites are available on the Homathko River. At Shelter Canyon, a dam 300 feet high and about 960 feet long would develop 126,300 horse power.

Nude Canyon, with a 300-foot dam and 650-foot crest, utilizing a power house at Lowwa Lake, would provide a combined head of 930 feet, which would develop 397,400 horsepower.
